HISTORIC HUGUENOT STREET

2017 YEAR IN REVIEW

DISCOVER. ENGAGE. ENJOY.

"We hope you will take pride in knowing that your support made so many curatorial, preservation, and programmatic achievements possible."

Liselle LaFrance & Mary Etta Schneider

DEAR SUPPORTERS

We would like to extend our gratitude for the generosity and enthusiasm of donors and friends in 2017!

Your support enabled ongoing investment in Historic Huguenot Street, culminating in the hiring of the museum's executive director, Liselle LaFrance. Liselle joined Historic Huguenot Street after serving as director of Historic Cherry Hill in Albany, New York, for 26 years. And as the museum seeks to meet the highest standards of accomplishment, Liselle's experience as a peer reviewer for the accreditation program of the American Alliance of Museums will be of great benefit.

In the midst of the search for an executive director, the museum's talented, ambitious, and professional staff achieved many remarkable accomplishments.

Historic Huguenot Street is proud to have a governing board that is growing in scholarship, diverse perspectives, and expertise. The museum is further guided by advisory and scholarly advisory councils whose collective talents provide expertise complementing that of its board.

Historic Huguenot Street's board and staff, councils, and members of the community are now working together in an exciting effort to undertake critically needed strategic, interpretive, and master planning that will guide the museum in its efforts to present cutting-edge historical interpretation and heighten its profile regionally, nationally, and internationally. We look forward to undertaking this work with your support and participation.

I hope you will take pride in knowing that your support made so many curatorial, preservation, and programmatic achievements possible, as highlighted in the following pages.

Board Chair

The decision to accept the position of executive director at Historic Huguenot Street last fall was an easy one, given the site's amazing accomplishments in recent years, and especially in 2017.

Under the curatorial leadership of Josephine Bloodgood, Historic Huguenot Street received a prestigious National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) Preservation Assistance grant to develop and implement an emergency preparedness program. Additionally, three significant exhibitions—Living in Style: Selections from the George Way Collection of Dutch Fine and Decorative Art, Kasten from Mid-Hudson Valley Collections, and John Hasbrouck: "A Most Estimable Citizen"—contributed to a growing scholarly interest in the region's history.

Museums hold a responsibility to help audiences understand history's relevance to contemporary issues, and Historic Huguenot Street has been effective in doing just that. Under the leadership of Kara Gaffken, an emphasis on telling the stories of all of the site's historical occupants opens up opportunities for important, relevant conversations. Within this report, you will read of initiatives to interpret the lives of the Esopus Munsee through the construction of a replica wigwam, along with award-winning presentations of a Juneteenth celebration and Reclaiming Our Time program that explored the difficult history of slavery and its contributions to racial discrimination in America. Importantly, our commitment to telling these stories is demonstrated by their incorporation into the ongoing interpretations of Historic Huguenot Street.

I am very much looking forward to contributing to the museum's record of accomplishments in the coming years.

TOURS & PROGRAMMING

In 2017, Historic Huguenot Street introduced a new structure on the street: a replica Munsee Native American wigwam to commemorate the 340th anniversary of the signing of the 1677 land agreement between the Esopus Munsee sachems and the Huguenot settlers.

Native American crafts expert and museum consultant Barry Keegan authentically constructed the replica wigwam on the DuBois Fort lawn using locally sourced materials. Keegan is the former supervisor of Native American Programs at the New York State Historical Association and Farmers' Museum in Cooperstown, and has constructed more than 80 wigwams and longhouses for museums, nature centers, and educational institutions. He regularly demonstrates early technologies for these organizations, as well as others such as the History Channel.

In April, Historic Huguenot Street honored the Esopus Munsee at the museum's inaugural Spring Celebration, which featured Stockbridge-Munsee Tribal Historic Preservation Officer Bonney Hartley and Ulster County Executive Michael P. Hein. Keegan was also on hand to talk about the wigwam's construction and demonstrate Native American craftsmaking and tools.

As of May 2017, the wigwam is now a part of Historic Huguenot Street's regular guided tours. It serves as an ongoing testament to the Esopus Munsee people who first populated this region.

Barry Keegan and fourth-grade students from Lenape Elementary School work on the wigwam.

Guests at Historic Huguenot Street's Spring Celebration explore the wigwam in construction.

Historic Huguenot Street introduced a monthly women's history tour in honor of the centennial ratification of women's suffrage in New York. In Her Words was developed by the public programming department with the assistance of Allison Surgeary, an intern from the State University of New York at New Paltz. During the tour, guests were guided through four historic buildings and introduced to several remarkable women who played a role in local history through a combination of documented and historical information and imagined monologues written and recorded by staff and volunteers.

EVENTS

In 2017, Historic Huguenot Street hosted a celebration of African culture, music, and cuisine in honor of Juneteenth, or June 19, 1865, the day Union soldiers landed at Galveston, Texas, carrying news that the Civil War had ended and that the enslaved had been freed. The special event was catered by Chef Brandon Walker, Culinary Institute of America graduate and owner of Essie's Restaurant in Poughkeepsie, in consultation with culinary historian Michael W. Twitty, author of The Cooking Gene: A Journey Through African-American Culinary History in the Old South. In addition, dynamic musician and storyteller Kim Harris performed songs of joy, hope, and freedom and members of Melody Africa performed West African drumming and dance.

Following the event, Terry James of the Slave Dwelling Project spent the night in a historic cellar kitchen on Huguenot Street (as he did in September 2016). This time, he shared the cellar with writers from the TMI Project, a nonprofit organization that offers transformative memoir- and monologue-writing workshops and performances that invite storytellers and audience members to explore new perspectives. Following their overnight stay, the writers participated in a series of workshops to craft monologues inspired by their lives and their experience on Huguenot Street. The TMI Project later performed these monologues at the Reformed Church of New Paltz in Reclaiming Our Time.

In October, Historic Huguenot Street received a 2017 Award of Excellence from Greater Hudson Heritage Network in recognition of both the Juneteenth and Reclaiming our Time events. The Awards of Excellence are given to projects that show creative vision in the preservation of history, culture, and diversity of the region.

Board Chair Mary Etta Schneider with cultural attaché of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, Joost Taverne.

The development department organized the museum's second annual Fall Harvest Celebration, a festive, farm-to-table fundraising dinner. The event raised $100,000 and was attended by 175 people including the cultural attaché of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, Joost Taverne. It also served as the opening night for the exhibitions Kasten from Mid-Hudson Valley Collections and Living in Style: Selections from the George Way Collection of Dutch Fine and Decorative Art.

CURATORIAL

The curatorial department produced a number of public exhibitions in 2017, including John Hasbrouck: "A Most Estimable Citizen" and Provincial Exile: Roelof Eltinge's Banishment from the Paltz (both accompanied by essays). Kasten from Mid-Hudson Valley Collections was installed throughout the Jean Hasbrouck and Abraham Hasbrouck Houses in the fall of 2017. Historic Huguenot Street holds one of the largest collections of Hudson Valley kasten in the nation. This exhibition featured more than a dozen American and Dutch kasten from the museum's permanent collection and selected loans from several prominent regional public and private collections, including Janice DeBell; Friends of Historic Kingston; Hasbrouck Family Association; Historical Society of Newburgh Bay and the Highlands; city of Newburgh, New York; Jeffrey and Sue Hoffman; Sanford A. Levy; Locust Lawn Collection, Locust Grove; Old Dutch Church, Kingston; Daniel and Karen Olson; Mary Etta Schneider; and Ulster County Historical Society.

The special exhibition Living in Style: Selections from the George Way Collection of Dutch Fine and Decorative Art features more than 100 17th- and 18th-century Dutch items from the Netherlands, including 22 oil paintings, a rich diversity of interior furnishings, and decorative and utilitarian objects. Installed in a period room in the historic Jean Hasbrouck House, the exhibition celebrates the Dutch culture that flourished in the 1600s and 1700s in New York State's New Netherland Colony. It will remain on display though 2018. A full-color catalogue with text by material culture historian Ruth Piwonka accompanies the exhibition.

Historic Huguenot Street also developed an extensive exhibition of Esopus Munsee artifacts found throughout the historic district's decades-long archaeological study conducted in partnership with the State University of New York at New Paltz, led by professor Dr. Joseph Diamond. This exhibition remains on display in the DuBois Fort Visitor Center through 2018. As part of the Spring Celebration, Historic Huguenot Street temporarily displayed the original 1677 manuscript carrying the marks of the five Esopus signers along with their 23 Sachem witnesses, the signatures of the 12 Huguenot patentees and their 16 witnesses, and Sir Edmund Andros, Governor of New York.

HISTORIC PRESERVATION

Work on the iconic Jean Hasbrouck House roof began in 2017. Derek Trelstad of Silman Associates completed a structural-engineering report for the roof framing, and Ken Follett of PreCon Logstrat, LLC, is serving as project manager. Follett and Trelstad recommended bringing in timber-frame experts Rudy Christian of Christian and Son, Inc., and Ian Stewart of New Netherland Timber Framing, who spent four days removing sheathing and examining rafters, which revealed significant rot and deterioration that delayed the projected completion of the roof to 2018. In October, the museum hosted the annual meeting of the Traditional Timber Frame Research and Advisory Group (TTRAG). The event brought experts working on timber-frame projects for historic buildings, barns, and bridges from around the world to share technical presentations and information.

Members of TTRAG examine timber framing in the attic of the Jean Hasbrouck House.

Timber framers remove sheathing from the roof of the Jean Hasbrouck House.

The interior and exterior masonry of the Crispell Memorial French Church and the north chimney at the Abraham Hasbrouck House were repaired. The bluestone walkway at the Deyo House was also repaired. Improvements to environmental control and management were made throughout the site, as recommended by consultants hired under the 2016–2018 National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) Sustaining Cultural Heritage Collections grant.

Thanks to the Village of New Paltz, a portion of Huguenot Street was closed permanently to motorized vehicles last summer in order to protect the adjacent stone houses and create a more pedestrian-friendly setting. The village also helped to ensure the relocation of two telephone poles, opening up the view of the Jean Hasbrouck House and making the site's original burying ground more accessible.

In late 2017, Historic Huguenot Street was awarded a prestigious NEH Preservation Assistance grant. The purpose of this federally funded grant is to augment emergency preparedness for the 10-acre National Historic Landmark District. The project entails a risk assessment for each of the historic houses and other buildings where collections are stored or displayed, completion of a comprehensive Emergency Preparedness and Response Plan, and subsequent training for staff and volunteers.

2017 INTERNS & SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS

As part of its ongoing commitment to academic achievement, Historic Huguenot Street offers a number of internship opportunities and annual scholarships.

Part-time internships are offered every fall, spring, and summer semester for college credits.

INTERNS

Emily Finan
Joshua Gonzalez
Carolyn Gordon
Nolan Graziano
Madison Petrella
Allison Surgeary

The museum awarded six recipients a total of $9,000 in scholarships for 2018, in collaboration with the Hasbrouck Family Association. This scholarship fund has now provided more than $150,000 to further the education of more than 100 undergraduate and graduate students across the country.

SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS

Carl Hayes (SUNY New Paltz)
Drew J. Hasbrouck (Northeastern University)
Kristen Hassenkamp (University of Akron)
Margaret Miller (College of William & Mary)
Sabrina Myoda (Purdue University)
Emma Tomicic (SUNY New Paltz)

Educational programming interns gain experience at the museum's Little Huguenots after-school program.

Director of public programming Kara Gaffken leads interns on a tour of the Deyo House kitchen.

Hasbrouck as follows, under date of Nov. 3d, 1794, enclosing Judge Lewis' report:

Sir: Inclosed is a certified copy of Judge Lewis' report in the case of LeFevre vs. Ketcham on the motion for a new trial. On hearing the report Mr. Van Vechten and myself are of the opinion that it would be a fruitless attempt to persevere in the motion for a new trial. You will perceive the judge's report is strong against us, and as our arguments would be tested by the report only, it would contradict the strength of every argument we would bring forward. How far the Judge is right or wrong the Trustees may in part judge as well as we. In the present instance his opinion would prevail; at least would have a strong operation against us. Whatever determination the Twelve Men shall see fit to take in future shall be faithfully attended to by their most obedient

JNO. ADDISON.

Josiah Hasbrouck, Esq.

It is not probable that the Duzine continued the litigation concerning Juffrous Hook.

In 1796 appears the following entry: "Memorandum: that the twelve men have been paid for defending the ejectment brought by Titus Ketcham against Geo. Wurts, Simeon Low, Gilbert Saxton, David Saffer,. Joseph Coddington and Peter Green, £151, 11s 7d which money has been paid by Peter LeFevre, Jun. [grandfather.]

The book of the Duzine contains accounts of the further expenditures of large sums of money from time to time in defending the Patent though it is not stated what portion of the boundary line was in dispute and it is quite certain that there was no further litigation concerning Juffrous Hook.

In 1796, appears an entry showing that Aaron Burr had been paid £20 for his services as attorney.

penses of 2,600 for the invasion of Canada; and also to raise £100,000 and £60,000 for like purposes under other Acts. One hundred and thirteen pounds, three shillings eight pence and one-fifth of a farthing was the amount to be collected from the precinct of New Paltz. This precinct then included the present town of New Paltz, the whole of Lloyd and parts of the towns of Rosendale, Esopus and Gardiner.

The warrant directed that after the tax was collected it should be lodged in the hands of Col. Abraham Hasbrouck, county treasurer, retaining the fees.

In 1765 there were only six Townships in the entire county, viz.: Kingston, Marbletown, Hurley, Rochester, Shawangunk and New Paltz.

Dirck Wynkoop, Jr., represented Kingston; Abraham Hardenburgh, New Paltz; Johannes H. Jansen, Shawangunk; Elias Depuy, Rochester. The remaining three Supervisors, viz.: John Dumond, Ch. Dewitt and John Wandle must have represented the towns of Hurley and Marbletown and a precinct or manor not yet organized into a Township.

An estimate or list of all the estates real and personal of all the freeholders and inhabitants of the precinct of New Paltz in 1765:

This assessment roll is valuable, not only as showing who were taxpayers and the amount of each assessment in 1765, but it is still more useful because with the aid of some corroborating evidence, we are able to determine where nearly all of the larger taxpayers lived

It is evident that the assessor in making out the roll commenced at the south bonds of the precinct as it then was at what is now Tuthill and continued on the west side of the Wallkill until reaching the north bounds of the Patent at Mud bring their wool there to have it carded and then their wives and daughters would weave and spin it. Some women would go from house to house as spinsters.

In those old days some farmers would tan their own sole leather, but the upper leather was manufactured at the tannery. About 1812 Wm. McDonald, a Scotchman, had a tannery and residence on the east side of the Wallkill, about 200 yards below the present railroad bridge at Springtown. A millstone still marks the site, but the buildings have disappeared and the land passed into the possession of Roelif Hasbrouck and subsequently of Charles Eltinge. McDonald's wife was a Krom, from Marbletown. After a while he sold the tannery and located just south of Perry Deyo's residence, on the road to Libertyville, where he built a house.

About 1815 Rowland DeGarmo, father of Wm. H. DeGarmo, came from Dutchess county and settled at Butterville, where he started a tannery and carried on an extensive business. In those days oak bark was used exclusively for tanning. He would send around his teams to the farmers at butchering time and gather up hides, which he would tan on shares.

In those days John Hait, father of Thad Hait, carried on the tanning business in Plattekill. There was a tannery at Centerville, and another which carried on a large business at the lower toll-gate on the Turnpike. Now there is not a tannery in Southern Ulster.

TEACHERS ABOUT 1820 AND EARLIER

We have found among the old papers information concerning only one schoolmaster during the Dutch-speaking period in New Paltz, that is from about 1750 to 1800. This was

yes

Joseph Coddington, who was probably the ancestor of the Coddington family in Ulster county, though we have no information on that point. Joseph Coddington's name first appears on the church book in 1758, when he and his wife, Catharine Vandemark, had a child, Sarah, baptized. At different dates the baptism of other children are recorded. When the second stone church was built in 1771 Joseph Coddington performed a great amount of clerical work, every item of which is set down minutely in the church book and for which he charged £12 19s. In a document dated 1781 Jonathan LeFevre, grandfather of Hon. Jacob LeFevre, and his brother John leased for ten years to Joseph Coddington, schoolmaster, without any rent except payment of taxes, lots No. 15 and 199, being a portion of the 1,529 acres granted by letters patent to Noah Eltinge and Nathaniel LeFevre and being within the neighborhood annexed to New Paltz. Mr. Coddington was at that time becoming advanced in years and had probably concluded to give up his school, which must have been in the old stone building, now the John Drake residence, and end his days as a farmer. We have no further information concerning Joseph Coddington, nor have we any information concerning teachers at New Paltz in the period succeeding the Revolutionary War.

Alexander Doag

One of the most noted teachers in the Kettleborough neighborhood and elsewhere in southern Ulster in the early part of the last century was Alexander Doag. He was a Scotchman, educated at the University of Edinburgh and taught at Kettleborough for a considerable period, about 1815. Although a man of fine education he was a slave of the drink habit. Each morning, on arriving at the schoolhouse he would take a drink

Flying Angel bio

The earliest European settlers in New York immigrated under a charter established by the Dutch West India Company. Thirty Walloon families who had fled to Holland from the Spanish Netherlands to escape religious persecution were among the first group to arrive in 1624. The families scattered and settled up the Hudson River Valley, with a few staying in the New York City area and others moving across the river to Long Island, where the village of Breuckelen (Brooklyn) was established.

The Walloons were soon joined by more of their fellow countrymen, as well as Huguenots, Germans from the Palatine region, Ulster-Scots, Irish, and English. In 1664, England took over control of the colony, and although the Dutch regained control in 1673, that only lasted a year before the English once again took over.

There was also a significant African slave population, but by the late 1700s many of these slaves had earned their freedom. Legislation in 1799 freed children of slave mothers, and in 1827 there was a complete abolition of slavery in the state. NY

Settlement prior to the American Revolution was focused primarily in the New York City area and the Delaware, Hudson, Mohawk, and Schoharie Valleys. During the Revolution, the British occupation of New York drew in Loyalists from surrounding areas and nearby states.

Completed in 1825, the Erie Canal linked the Hudson River and New York City to Lake Erie. The new canal launched waves of settlers seeking an easier way to travel to the West, and provided a means by which these settlers could in turn ship goods back East.

Of the 5.4 million people who arrived in the U.S. between 1820 and 1860, more than two-thirds entered at New York. By the 1850s, New York was receiving more than three-quarters of the national total of immigrants, and by the 1890s, more than four-fifths. The Irish potato famine sent immigrants of all classes to the United States, many of them entering through the port of New York, along with many German immigrants escaping poor economic conditions.

In 1855 Castle Garden became the receiving station of note, but upon leaving the immigration station, immigrants were routinely and ruthlessly exploited. By 1890 the facilities proved in adequate for the large and increasing numbers of arrivals and Ellis Island was selected as the site for an entirely new United States immigration station. On the island, immigrants could be screened and protected before setting out in their new country. Ellis Island officially opened 1 January 1892.

New York Censuses

U.S. federal censuses for New York, 1790–1940, are indexed and available on Ancestry.com.

Two enumerations were taken in New York City in 1870, both of which are available on Ancestry.com. Look for street addresses on the second enumerations, which were not recorded the first time around.

Parts of the enumerations for the towns of Eastchester (Westchester County) and Brookhaven (Suffolk County) are among the few surviving schedules of the 1890 federal census. A Manhattan 1890 police census, available at the Municipal Archives, also fills part of the void of the destroyed federal census. Damaged and missing censuses include the following:

- 1810: Cortland and part of Broome County—missing
- 1860: Chenango and Columbia counties—damaged
- 1880: Suffolk County and New York City Wards 21 and 22—damaged

Of almost greater value in New York than the federal are the state censuses, taken every ten years from 1825 to 1875, in 1892, and again in 1905, 1915, and 1925 (pre-1825 state censuses and state copies of those for 1855–1905 were destroyed in the 1911 state library fire).

New York Vital Records

- Statewide civil registration began in New York in 1880-1881, although complete compliance was not met until 1913, and in some cases later.
- New York State Department of Health: Holds records of births, marriages, divorces, and deaths which occurred outside of New York City since 1881. See the Genealogy page for information on ordering records. Records may also be available from the Town Clerk where the event occurred.

The Coddington Family n America

by Eleanor Rosakranse

Few people in the twelfth century had more than one name. Finally, in order to distinguish one John or Jane from the other it became necessary to initiate a system for the use of a second, or "sur" name. The primary sources for these names were four: occupation, location, father's name, or personal characteristics. This was true in nearly all European countries.

England was the home of the family who took the name Coddington in those days. It is believed that their location was the reason for taking the surname they did. Coddington means "one who came from or near Coddington." There were probably many spellings of the name used by various branches of the family as it evolved; among them were Codd, Codding, and Coddings, with Coddintan and Coddington being the most frequently used.

The immigrant American, Stockdale Coddington, was born about 1566 at Surrey, England, in a village known as Clochingly. He died in 1649-50 in Hampton, New Hampshire. He married three times. The first wife was Frances Ismangale who died before Stockdale came to America. His second wife, Sarah Wood, likewise was deceased by 1621 in Dorking, Surrey. His third wife, Hannah, a widow, was buried in Roxbury, Massachusetts, in 1644. Apparently this death occurred within a year after Stockdale and Hannah came to this country and settled in Massachusetts. After her death, he went to New Hampshire.

There was no issue of this third marriage, but by his first wife Stockdale had two daughters whose names I have not been able to find. Among the children of Stockdale and Sara Wood was John, baptized at Dorking in 1605. In about 1650 John of Boston married a woman named Emma. His death occurred in Boston in 1655. His wife died there also, in 1702.

John and Emma had at least three children: John, Jr., born 9 February 1654, Henry, and Sarah, who died young. John, Jr., married Anna Gardner. This John the weaver moved sometime around 1677 from Boston to the area that is now Woodbridge, New Jersey. He was a weaver by trade.

John the weaver and Anna (Gardner) Coddington had the following offspring:

1. John, born 8 November 1677
2. Benjamin, born 8 October 1680, died 18 April 1753
3. Hannah, born 27 May 1863
4. Sarah, born 28 March 1687
5. Joseph, born 22 March 1689

It was Benjamin's descendants who eventually made the first move to Ulster County. Benjamin is buried in the Presbyterian churchyard in Woodbridge. His wife was Mary; her surname has not so far been found. She bore eighteen children. Of these, one was Benjamin, Jr. He was born about 1708 and died in Woodbridge sometime after 1750. He married Catherine Martin, daughter of Joseph Martin of Woodbridge. There may have been a second wife named Mary. In any event, there were several children.

Why my ancestor: Benj JR

Two of the sons came to Ulster County and originally settled in Accord. Joseph married Catharina Van Demark in the Rochester Reformed Church on 18 February 1753. They had eleven children, all baptized in the New Paltz Reformed Church where Joseph became an early schoolmaster. Of the eleven, Joseph, Jr. (also ancestor) married Marya Hardford. Benjamin, born 10 May 1768 (died 29 December 1851), married Mary Rosecrans. The latter couple lived in Accord and had ten children. Several years later they moved to the Ithaca area.

Kings

Benj or Jos

2. Another son of Benjamin and Catherine (Martin) Coddington was Christopher, who was born about 1731 in New Jersey. He also came to the Accord area and married here on 13 October, 1753, Maria Osterhout, born in Kripplebush on 9 June 1734. She was the daughter of Kryn Osterhout and Geertjen Decker. This is the family from whom most of the Coddingtons in the Town of Rochester descend. There were seven children of this union:

Accord

1. Ariantje (Harriet, Annetje) born 3 September 1754 in Accord. She married Daniel Quick.
2. Eyda (Lydia) born 29 April 1756, baptised 1 November 1756 in Accord.
3. Benjamin, baptised 28 June 1758. He married 24 January 1792, Maria Osterhout, daughter of Jacob Osterhout and Jannetje De Witt. Both of them had been born in Accord and were married there.
4. Levi, born 10 September 1760, baptised 21 September 1760 in Accord.
5. John, baptised 14 April 1765 in Port Jervis, New York.
6. Joseph, baptised 12 December 1762 in Port Jervis. He died 18 April 1847 in Wawarsing.
7. Daniel, married Susannah Brown, and died after 1820. They had seven children.

Many of the present-day Coddingtons in the Town of Rochester are related to this son Daniel. If you can trace your family back this far, we can probably come up with your decendance from Stockdale.

At some point between 1760 and 1765 the family moved to Port Jervis and then further into the New Jersey area. These early families traveled extensively on the "Old Mine Road" to visit, trade, and carry on business. I am always amazed at how frequently they stayed for awhile in this area and then returned to Pennsylvania or New Jersey.

In future issues of the Accordian other families will be researched. If you have a question concerning any family, why not send me a note. If at all possible, I'll answer it for you or try to find an answer. ■

One Line of the Descendants of

John Coddington

Of Woodbridge, N. J.

The town of Woodbridge,[1] N. J., was settled 1666–7, chiefly by persons coming from Rhode Island and Massachusetts. The name "Woodbridge" was given to it in honor of the Rev. John Woodbridge, who was the pastor of some of the settlers when they lived at Newbury, Mass. Gov. Wm. Coddington[2] of Rhode Island was one of the original purchasers of Monmouth County, which at first included Woodbridge, but he did not come to New Jersey and it is not known that any of his children or grandchildren settled there, though there was probably some connection between his purchase and the fact that Coddingtons are found in the place at an early date. John Coddington was the first of the name of whom any mention is made in the records of the early settlers. He purchased land in Woodbridge in 1683 and in 1684 and 1691 of Jonathan Dennis and Wm. Bingley and became the ancestor of a large number of descendants. He was probably the son of John Coddington[3] of Boston, Mass., who died there 18

Aug. (or June), 1655, leaving a wife, Emma..........., who was married 7 Mar., 1656, by Major Humph. Atherton to her second husband, John Jephson (or Jepson), and by him had a son John Jephson, who married Ruth Gardner. In the Boston records, the name is sometimes spelled Cuddington." John Coddington of Boston(1) and Emma his wife had certainly two and perhaps three children, viz.,

1 Sarah, b. 4 Oct. (or Mar. 29), 1651; d. 9 Aug. (or 8 Sept.). 1656;
2 John, SR. b. 9 Feb., 1654 (or 53). John married Hannah Gardner, daughter* of Richard Gardner, of Charlestown, Mass., (whose daughter Ruth Gardner, married John Jephson). He probably went to New Jersey and founded the family there.
(3) (?) Henry, b. before 1651, and living in Boston in 1670.

*—In "The Genealogies and Estates of Charlestown," we find that Richard Gardner's daughter Hannah married John Coddington SR Richard "m. Anna Blanchard (16) 18 (8) 1651; d. May 29, 1698 ae. a. 79; g. s. at Woburn. Will, March 15, 1697, pro. June 6, 1698, devised to Chr. Henry (b. Feb. 12, 1657–8), Hannah Coddington (wife of John) SR Hester Johnson, Abigail Thompson, Rebecca Whitmore, Mehitable Connett (wife of James), Ruth Jypson (Jepson) and their eldest child. All Woburn lands".

Richard Gardner, from Surrey, Eng., says tradition. Settled first at Woburn, having his house nearly opposite to the mansion of the late Luke Reed, Esq., in Woburn West End, about 40 yds. from the road, where remains of a cellar and well were still discernible in 1857, but bet. 1661 and 1667 he removed into "Charlestown End," to the spot where the two maiden ladies, Miss Patience Gardner and her sister, had their habitation; and hence the births of his last 4 children are not recorded in Woburn Records but must be looked for in those of Charlestown.

? M. Anna Blanchard, of Acton (Savage says of Charlestown, widow of Thomas, of Mystic or Malden side), 18 Oct., 1651, by whom he had:

John b. 14 Aug., 1652.
Anna b. 17 Jan. 1654–5 d. before her father
Benjamin, b. 26 Dec., 1656 d. before his father.
*Henry, b. 12 Feb., 1657–8 (His record given here).
Esther, b. 15 Oct., 1659; m. Wm., eldest son of Major Wm. Johnson and Esther his wife; d. 17 Dec., 1706, age 48.
Ruth, b. 1 Apr., 1661; m. John Gypson (Gibson) (or Jepson).

Epitaph on Tombstone.

[1] Sacred To the memory of Mable Cook, wife of Mr. John Cook, who Departed This lif Feb. 25 A. D. 1817 Aged 59 years and 9 Days—She was a kind and affectionate Wife A tender and beloved mother She was sudenly called to exchange worlds A soul prepared needs no delays The Summons comes—the Saint obeys Swift was her flight and short the road She closed her eyes and saw her God The flesh rests here till Jesus come and claims the treasure from the tomb—

In robes of white she treads the etherial soil
And led by Jesus to life's golden tree
She sings perpetual eas from pain and toil and plucks the fruits of immortality—

MOSES CODDINGTON — our direct ancestor, and father of Enoch Coddington, whose record of descendants follows herewith, was born in Woodbridge, New Jersey, January 16, 1768. From authentic sources obtained with difficulty, he, with his wife and family of several children, together with his brother, William Coddington, wife and family, set out from Woodbridge about the year 1816 or 1817, in quest of land and homes in the Northwest Territory, then so known and called. The Indian Wars, waging in that territory for some years previous, were over. Chief Tecumseh had been killed and the marauding bands of his followers, a constant threat to the safety of the settlers, were brought undr control. Before continuing, I want to set it forth here, that William and Moses married sisters, Moses' wife was named Amy Girton. The name of the other girl is not known.

After traveling together over such roads as were then available; none graded or well laid out, most were mere trails and all small streams had to be forded and the larger ones crossed by ferries, with covered wagons drawn by oxen or teams of horses, from Woodbridge, west several hundred miles.

One Line of the Descendants of

John Coddington

Of Woodbridge, N. J.

The town of Woodbridge,[1] N. J., was settled 1666–7, chiefly by persons coming from Rhode Island and Massachusetts. The name "Woodbridge" was given to it in honor of the Rev. John Woodbridge, who was the pastor of some of the settlers when they lived at Newbury, Mass. Gov. Wm. Coddington[2] of Rhode Island was one of the original purchasers of Monmouth County, which at first included Woodbridge, but he did not come to New Jersey and it is not known that any of his children or grandchildren settled there, though there was probably some connection between his purchase and the fact that Coddingtons are found in the place at an early date. John Coddington was the first of the name of whom any mention is made in the records of the early settlers. He purchased land in Woodbridge in 1683 and in 1684 and 1691 of Jonathan Dennis and Wm. Bingley and became the ancestor of a large number of descendants. He was probably the son of John Coddington[3] of Boston, Mass., who died there 18

F. 98. Thomas Fowle, house and garden. He removed to Braintree. In 1650, house and orchard sold by John Cuddington to Wm. Holloway. (He had Leger North, Smit South, Bottolph East—W. H. W.)
F. 102—Cole, house & garden; later owned by John Cuddington, John Bateman and John Odlin, in 1650."

Aug. (or June), [illegible], leaving a wife, Emma............, who was married 7 Mar., 1656, by Major Humph. Atherton to her second husband, John Jephson (or Jepson), and by him had a son John Jephson, who married Ruth Gardner. In the Boston records, the name is sometimes spelled Cuddington. John Coddington of Boston and Emma his wife had certainly two and perhaps three children, viz.,

1 Sarah, b. 4 Oct. (or Mar. 29), 1651; d. 9 Aug. (or 8 Sept.), 1656;
2 John, b. 9 Feb., 1654 (or 53). John married Hannah Gardner, daughter* of Richard Gardner, of Charlestown, Mass., (whose daughter Ruth Gardner, married John Jephson). He probably went to New Jersey and founded the family there.
(3) (?) Henry, b. before 1651, and living in Boston in 1670.

*—In "The Genealogies and Estates of Charlestown," we find that Richard Gardner's daughter Hannah married John Coddington. Richard "m. Anna Blanchard (16) 18 (8) 1651; d. May 29, 1698 ae. a. 79; g. s. at Woburn. Will, March 15, 1697, pro. June 6, 1698, devised to Chr. Henry (b. Feb. 12, 1657–8), Hannah Coddington (wife of John), Hester Johnson, Abigail Thompson, Rebecca Whitmore, Mehitable Connett (wife of James), Ruth Jypson (Jepson) and their eldest child. All Woburn lands".

Richard Gardner, from Surrey, Eng., says tradition.
Settled first at Woburn, having his house nearly opposite to the mansion of the late Luke Reed, Esq., in Woburn West End, about 40 yds. from the road, where remains of a cellar and well were still discernible in 1857, but bet. 1661 and 1667 he removed into "Charlestown End," to the spot where the two maiden ladies, Miss Patience Gardner and her sister, had their habitation; and hence the births of his last 4 children are not recorded in Woburn Records but must be looked for in those of Charlestown.

M. Anna Blanchard, of Acton (Savage says of Charlestown, widow of Thomas, of Mystic or Malden side), 18 Oct., 1651, by whom he had:

John b. 14 Aug., 1652.
Anna b. 17 Jan. 1654–5 d. before her father
Benjamin, b. 26 Dec., 1656 d. before his father.
Henry, b. 12 Feb., 1657–8 (His record given here).
Esther, b. 15 Oct., 1659; m. Wm., eldest son of Major Wm. Johnson and Esther his wife; d. 17 Dec., 1706, age 48.
Ruth, b. 1 Apr., 1661; m. John Gypson (Gibson) (or Jepson).
Hannah, b................, m. John Coddington.
Abigail, b. ...., m. James Thompson.
Rebecca, b. ...., m. Samuel Whittemore, of Cambridge, 13 Feb., 1686.
Mehetabel, m. John Connett.

See, also, Sewall's History of Woburn. Richard Gardner was buried in old Burying Ground, Park St., Woburn Centre. Epitaph:

Memento Mori. Fugit Hora.
Here lyes ye body of Richard Gardner aged about 79 years. Died May 29, 1698.

and died about 1650, and whose wife Hannah........... died in Roxbury, in 1644, in advanced age (and was buried 20 May), may have been the father or grandfather of the first John Coddington, of Boston. Nothing more is known of him.

JOHN CODDINGTON[2], of Woodbridge, N. J., probably son of John, of Boston; b. (prob.) 1654; m. (1st), Annah (or Hannah) ....(perhaps Gardner)[3], who d. 20 Sept., 1690; m. (2d), 1 May, 1691, Mary White, (who (prob.) joined Presbyterian Church at Woodbridge in 1707–or 8 (or 3 Oct. 1710.). He was constable at Woodbridge in 1692. Bought land in Woodbridge of Jonathan Dennes in 1683–4–91. His will cannot be found in the Records. His children were probably as follows, though he, perhaps, had others whose names are not known:

1. John, b. 8 Nov., 1677, married Elizabeth........................
2. Benjamin, b. 8 Oct., 1680, married Mary.........................
3. Hannah, b. 27 May, 1683.
4. Sarah, b. 28 March, 1687.
5. Joseph, b. 22 March, 1689.

Nothing further is known of Hannah, Sarah and Joseph. The wills of John and Benjamin can be seen at the Secretary of State's office at Trenton, N. J.

End of Bible Record.

p. 24: of Vol. 21: Following the Bible record there is a genealogical compilation of the Gilman-Clarkson-Coddington family. On p. 24, following record of James Clarkson who was m. 3r times. (1) at Woodbridge, N.J. 12-18-1706, Abigail Conger; m. (2) at Woodbridge 9-11-1733, Elizabeth Gilman, widow of Joseph Gilman; m. (3) at Woodbridge, by license, dated 2-5-1744/5, Elizabeth Coddington, widow of John Coddington (4th gen.; John 3rd; the weaver John2nd, of Boston Stockdale 1st), of Woodbridge, who had d. between 12-25-1738, (date of will) and 1-9-1738/9,(date of probate). This Elizabeth may have been born at Woodbridge 1-8-1678/9, as eldest child of Jonathan and Rachel (Moore) Dennis, but this identification is not yet certain. As Elizabeth Codington, widow, she practiced midwifery at Woodbridge between 1739 and 1744. The date of her death is not known.

p. 25:
Agnes Clarkson, (James 3, James 2, James 1), was b. at Woodbridge 6-5-1708, d. there after 1-30-1752, when her youngest child was b. but before 2-19-1756, when her husband had lic. to marry again. She m. presumably at Woodbridge about 1724, JOHN CODDINGTON, (John 4, John the weaver 3, John 2, of Boston Stockdale 1 of Woodbridgem yeoman, b. there 3-25-1706, d. there between 11-11-1757, (date of will) and 1-5-1758, (date of probate). It will be seen that John and Agnes were aged about 18 and 16 at marriage, just like Agnes' parents. John Coddington's mother, Elizabeth (Dennis?) Coddington later became Agnes' stepmother.
John Coddington was Constable of Woodbridge, 1739. He owned some land in Woodbridge which had formerly been the property of James Clarkson. After Agnes' death John Coddington on 2-19-1756 had lic. to marry (2) Margaret Lewis of Woodbridge, widow

Do you have any sources mentioning the above? Is anyone researching the Coddingtons? Can you recommend any genealogy books, societies or libraries I could write to?

Any help will be greatly appreciated.

Thank you,

Dear Mrs. Dodd:

Enclosed are the latest replies I have had concerning the ancestry of your Coddingtons. I would gather they are not the descendants of Governor William Coddington.

Perhaps you would have to continue your research in New Jersey as that is where Joseph was born.

All good wishes.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Hasbrouck:

Thank you for your letter of 21 July regarding the Coddingtons. I regret I was not able to find any reference to Joseph Coddington in our genealogical files.

Enclosed are title pages of Coddington families from Maryland and New Jersey which I examined in search of Joseph and his parents. There is no known connection between Governor William Coddington of Rhode Island and these other Coddington families. Also, the male Coddington line of descent from Governor William is extinct so all Coddingtons in America today descend from families other than Governor William of Rhode Island.

I hope this information is helpful.

Sincerely,

Bertram Lippincott III

Notes From Old School Reports, town of Rochester, p. 219:

Simeon J. Van Wagenen taught schoold in the Newtown district, Rochester, Twp. one year, commencing the 9th day of January 1798, and clsoing on the 30th day of January 1799. The salary was "£28, and to be boarded."
The trustees of the Mombaccus (Rock-Accord) school report that Isaac French taught for one year ending 2-12-1795, for the consideration of "£27, 10 shillings and to be boarded;" that the same Isaac French was engaged for another year at a consideration of "£40 and to be boarded." He evidently pleased the district, securing a handsome advance in wages. Among the names of the children attending his first year were Jacob^{3} Coddington Jr., Joseph^{3} Coddington, Annantje^{3} Coddington, and many others, including Jacobus^{3} Coddington. 1795
The trustees were Jacob^{2} Coddington, Henry De Witt Jr. and Cornelius I. Hoornbeck.

Joseph Coddington was the schoolmaster in those days. p.102
In a document dated 1781 Jonathan LeFevre, and his brother John leased for ten years to Joseph Coddington, schoolmaster, without any rent except payment of taxes, lots No. 15 and 199, being a portion of the 1,529 acres granted by letters patent to Noah Eltinge and Nathaniel LeFevre and being within the neighborhood annexed to New Paltz. Mr. Coddington was at that time becoming advanced in years and had probably concluded to give up his (age 49) school, which must have been in the old stone building (in 1973 the manolukas residence) (b. 1812) and end his days as a farmer. We have no further record concerning Joseph Coddington, nor have we any information concerning teachers at New Paltz in the period succeeding the Revolutionary War.

Appendix, p. 44:
In the records of the Duzine(Dozen men being the government of New Paltz), in 1796 appears the following entry:
"Memorandum: that the twelve men have been paid for defending the ejectment brought by Titus Ketcham against George Wurts, Simeon Low, Gilbert Saxton, David Saffer, Joseph Coddington and Peter Green, £151,11s. 7d. which money has been paid by Peter LeFevre Jr.

(b) Will of David Coddington^{2} - Tompkins Co., N.Y., Bk. B, Pg. 10, dated 14 June, 1827, probated 26 June, 1827, names:

3 sons - Henry, David & William - all landed estate, horses, wagon, harness, etc.
Son William - ½ crops on ground, 1 bed & bedding.
Daughter Dorcas - 2 cows.
Daughter Sarah Eliza - 2 cows, all kitchen furniture, bed & bedding
Daughter Mary - 1 steir
Son Henry - 2 heifers
Daughters Catherine, Ann, Mary, Dorcas & Sarah Eliza - $100
Executors: son Henry, son-in-law Jedediah Middsing, Robt. nephew Coddington
Witnesses: Alexander Simpson, Robt. Coddington, Elizabeth Wisner.

(c) Wife of Henry named as Hester in deed, Tompkins Co., Deed Bk. M, Pg. 30

(d) John M. Roe of Danby Twp., Tompkins Co., appointed "guardian of William Coddington, an infant & son of David Coddington, deceased". Roe as guardian sold 1/3 part of 102 acres formerly owned by David Coddington in Ithaca Twp., lot 100, adjoining the land of Joseph Coddington to William Bryan. Isaac and James Munger named as securities in petition to court to sell land. Tompkins Co., Deed Bk. X, Pg. 235. Note: A William Coddington is listed in 1850 U.S. Census, ? County, Mich., as aged 34 (b. 1816), b. N.Y., with:

Mary	aged 26	b. N.Y.
Jane	" 9	b. N.Y.
Ada A.	" 6	b. Mich.
Sylvenos	" 3	b. Mich.
Joseph	" 30		Laborer

(e) In his biography Isaac, son of Christian & Mary (Coddington) Munger, said his mother was born in Tompkins Co., N.Y. However, Tompkins Co. was not formed until 1817 from Seneca Co. which was established in 1804 from Cayuga Co. David, Mary's father, is first found in the 1810 U.S. Census. Thus, it appears Mary was born in Ulster Co., N.Y. where David by deed dated 1804 in Ulster Co. bought land in Seneca Co. which was not recorded in Seneca Co. until 1815.

(f) No record of this marriage is found in Tompkins Co., N.Y. However, family records attest to it.

(g) As recorded on her tombstone in Kern Cemetery, Kalamazoo Co., near Schoolcraft, Mich., and by death certificate, Kalamazoo Co., Bk. 1, Pg. 31

(h) Marriage records of Holmes Co., Ohio, Vol. I, Pg. 107, lists marriage of Sarah E. Coddington to Jesse Butler in 1831. No Coddington or Munger family is found in Holmes Co. as early as 1831. Christian & Mary (Coddington) Munger, sister of Sarah Eliza, were in Holmes Co. in 1835 and possibly earlier. They moved from Holmes Co. to Kalamazoo Co., Mich., in 1854 and it appears that Sarah E. Butler moved there also at some time. Kalamazoo Co. death certificate #3-136 (1905) names Sarah E. Butler; father's name, John Prust; mother, unknown. Sarah Eliza may have been an adopted child of David Coddington.

bring their wool there to have it carded and then their wives and daughters would weave and spin it. Some women would go from house to house as spinsters.

In those old days some farmers would tan their own sole leather, but the upper leather was manufactured at the tannery. About 1812 Wm. McDonald, a Scotchman, had a tannery and residence on the east side of the Wallkill, about 200 yards below the present railroad bridge at Springtown. A millstone still marks the site, but the buildings have disappeared and the land passed into the possession of Roelif Hasbrouck and subsequently of Charles Eltinge. McDonald's wife was a Krom, from Marbletown. After a while he sold the tannery and located just south of Perry Deyo's residence, on the road to Libertyville, where he built a house.

About 1815 Rowland DeGarmo, father of Wm. H. DeGarmo, came from Dutchess county and settled at Butterville, where he started a tannery and carried on an extensive business. In those days oak bark was used exclusively for tanning. He would send around his teams to the farmers at butchering time and gather up hides, which he would tan on shares.

In those days John Hait, father of Thad Hait, carried on the tanning business in Plattekill. There was a tannery at Centerville, and another which carried on a large business at the lower toll-gate on the Turnpike. Now there is not a tannery in Southern Ulster.

TEACHERS ABOUT 1820 AND EARLIER

We have found among the old papers information concerning only one schoolmaster during the entire Dutch-speaking period in New Paltz, that is from about 1750 to 1800. This was

Joseph Coddington, who was probably the ancestor of the Coddington family in Ulster county, though we have no information on that point. Joseph Coddington's name first appears on the church book in 1758, when he and his wife, Catharine Vandemark, had a child, Sarah, baptized. At different dates the baptism of other children are recorded. When the second stone church was built in 1771 Joseph Coddington performed a great amount of clerical work, every item of which is set down minutely in the church book and for which he charged £12 19s. In a document dated 1781 Jonathan LeFevre, grandfather of Hon. Jacob LeFevre, and his brother John leased for 10 ten years to Joseph Coddington, schoolmaster, without any rent except payment of taxes, lots No. 15 and 199, being a portion of the 1,529 acres granted by letters patent to Noah Eltinge and Nathaniel LeFevre and being within the neighborhood annexed annexed to New Paltz. Mr. Coddington was at that time being advanced in years and had probably concluded to give up the school, which must have been in the old stone building, now the John Drake residence, and end his days as a farmer. We have no further information concerning Joseph Coddington nor have we any information concerning teachers at New Paltz in the period succeeding the Revolutionary War.

ALEXANDER DOAG

One of the most noted teachers in the Kettleborough neighborhood and elsewhere in southern Ulster in the early part of the last century was Alexander Doag. He was a Scotchman, educated at the University of Edinburgh and taught at Kettleborough for a considerable period. about 1815. Although a man of fine education he was a slave of the drink habit. Each morning, on arriving at the schoolhouse he would take a drink

by Lefevre

Hasbrouck as follows, under date of Nov. 3d, 1794, enclosing Judge Lewis' report:

Sir: Inclosed is a certified copy of Judge Lewis' report in the case of LeFevre vs. Ketcham on the motion for a new trial. On hearing the report Mr. Van Vechten and myself are of the opinion that it would be a fruitless attempt to persevere in the motion for a new trial. You will perceive the judge's report is strong against us, and as our arguments would be tested by the report only, it would contradict the strength of every argument we would bring forward. How far the Judge is right or wrong the Trustees may in part judge as well as we. In the present instance his opinion would prevail; at least would have a strong operation against us. Whatever determination the Twelve Men shall see fit to take in future shall be faithfully attended to by their most obedient

JNO. ADDISON.

Josiah Hasbrouck, Esq.

It is not probable that the Duzine continued the litigation concerning Juffrous Hook.

In 1796 appears the following entry: "Memorandum: that the twelve men have been paid for defending the ejectment brought by Titus Ketcham against Geo. Wurts, Simeon Low, Gilbert Saxton, David Saffer, Joseph Coddington and Peter Green, £151, 11s 7d which money has been paid by Peter LeFevre, Jun. [grandfather.]

The book of the Duzine contains accounts of the further expenditures of large sums of money from time to time in defending the Patent though it is not stated what portion of the boundary line was in dispute and it is quite certain that there was no further litigation concerning Juffrous Hook.

undary dispute

In 1796, appears an entry showing that Aaron Burr had been paid £20 for his services as attorney.

In 1798 the sum of £200 is called for to defend the boundaries of he Patent and each of the Twelve Men proceeds to raise his proportion of that sum.

In 1801 appears another call for money to defend the Patent and £400 is the amount needed.

In 1804 there is an entry on the other side of the account and Philip Elting paid the Twelve Men £48 received of Titus Ketcham.

In 1809 there is reference made to a suit between New Paltz and Marbletown concerning the boundary line. It is not stated how the suit terminated, but the writer remembers having heard when a child that the Duzine employed Aaron Burr as their attorney and that they won the case.

After this date there is no entry of any importance but merely the mention each year of the names of the twelve men elected until in 1824 when the record stops altogether, showing that the elections of the Duzine had ceased. The fact that there are a number of blank pages following the last entry of names show that the record had not been transferred to another book.

The very last record in the book follows the usual phraseology and is as follows: "At the annual town meeting of the free holders and inhabitants of the town of New Paltz on the first Tuesday of April, 1824, the following persons were chosen and elected by plurality of the votes of the freeholders and inhabitants in pursuance of a certain instrument of writing made for that purpose: For the patentee's share of Jean Hasbrouck, Jacob J. Hasbrouck; for the patentee's share of Abraham Hasbrouck, Samuel Hasbrouck; for the patentee's share of Louis DuBois, Philip Elting; for the patentee's share of Anthony Crispell, Elias Ean; for the patentee's share of Simon LeFevre, Matthew LeFevre; for the patentee's share

ULSTER COUNTY. 1810

Ulster County, is of ancient date. This County with Dutchess, had two Delegates in the first Legislative Assembly of the Colony, which met at New-York in 1691. It was one of those formed by the General Organization Acts of 1788, and 1801; and has constituted one of the counties of the Colony and State of New-York ever since 1691, though the boundaries have been altered: Several towns have been annexed to Orange County, and Sullivan Co. erected from the western part. Bounded Northerly by Delaware and Greene Counties, E. by the Hudson, or by Columbia and Dutchess Counties, S. by Orange, Westwardly by Sullivan County. The area may be 966 square miles, or 617,440 acres. Situated between 41° 33′ and 42° 10′ N. Latitude; 06′ E. and 47′ W. Longitude from New-York.

The County of Ulster is considerably broken by the Castsbergs, or Castskill mountains, which see page 9. The Shawangunk,† a principal ridge, holds its course from New-Jersey across the N.W. angle of Orange, into Ulster county; nor does this, with other ridges of the same range, lose its continuity, although only seen in irregular hills in the country W. of Kingston. And in the northern towns, these again aspire towards a loftier character, and rise in Greene County into the Catsbergs before noticed. These ridges are at first 20 to 23 miles from the Hudson, approaching it in an angle of about 35° as they decline in altitude, and receding in about the same angle as they rise again toward the north. The soil is of various qualities, indicated by the extent and diversity of surface. The channel of the Hudson forms the eastern boundary of Ulster, and the small streams are very numerous. The Wallkill, noticed under Orange County, enters Ulster from the S.W., and receiving Shawangunk creek, holds its course northward through Shawangunk, Paltz or New-Paltz, Hurley, where it receives Rondout kill or creek, and dividing Kingston from Esopus, enters the Hudson 3 miles E. of Kingston Village. The Walikill is 20 rods wide, in Shawangunk. The Rondout rises in Sullivan County; and ranging the E. side of Shawangunk mountain, curves with that eastward through Wawarsing, Rochester or Mombackus, and Marbletown, into Hurley, till the ridge subside into hills, and suffer it to meet Wallkill there, which rises on the E. of that ridge. Shandakan, a large Township, in the N. W. angle of Ulster, sends some small waters into Delaware and some to Sullivan Counties; and Esopus creek rises here also, which winds through Marbletown, Hurley, Kingston and Saugerties, where it enters the Hudson, 11 miles N. of Kingston Village. There are many other small streams, as Saagh-kill, Platte-kill, Good-beer, &c., but too inconsiderable for general notice, after the above copious details. The uplands are, in general, rich and productive; and the flats along the above streams are very extensive, with considerable tracts of recent and rich alluvion, though interspersed with clay and argillaceous mold.

* e generous conduct on that occasion of Robert R. Livingston, Esquire, late himself a great sufferer, deserves honorable remembrance.*

The County of Washington is bounded on the W. by the channel of the Hudson an extent of 55 or 60 miles, following the course of the river, commencing 15 miles above the tides; on the E. it is washed by L. Champlain, the channel of which forms its boundary about 20 miles; it embraces nearly all of Lake George, the half of Scroon L., the whole of Brant L., and of S. Bay, from the head of L. Champlain. Scroon river, or the proper Hudson, rises to the W. of Crown-Point in Essex Co., courses southward through the Lake of the same name, and across the northern part of Washington County, where it receives the N. branch of the Hudson, which has risen a little further W. among the mountains, swamps and ponds of Essex and Montgomery Counties. Thus the Hudson, coming from 55 or 60 miles to the N., approaches within 5 miles of the S. end of Lake George, a water of L. Champlain, of the St. Lawrence. Hoosac creek, which rises in Vermont, holds a short course in the southern part of this county; and Batten-kill, a fine stream from the same state, runs westward across Washington to the Hudson, 10 miles further north. Paulet creek, also from Vermont, runs N. eastward into Wood creek, which rises near the great bend of the Hudson in this county, and empties into the head of L. Champlain at Whitehall; and Poultney creek or river, emptying at the same place, forms 13 or more miles of the boundary between New-York and Vermont. These are all sufficient streams for mills, and the advantages for navigation of the largest ones, are detailed under their respective names. The Sacandaga, which winds through Montgomery and Saratoga Counties to the Hudson, rises in Johnsburgh, the N.W. angle of Washington County. Any general character of soil and surface would be necessarily liable to many objections, such is the extent of territory and so diversified. The country around Lake George is generally rugged and mountainous, presenting summits of 6, 8, 900 to 1100 feet altitude; and indeed all the northern half is broken and hilly, if not amply entitled to a mountain character, though interspersed with vallies of considerable extent, affording a pretty good soil for farming. But the southern part, though considerably uneven, contains a very large proportion of arable land, agreeably undulated, with a warm light soil, well adapted for the various products of field agriculture. Tracts of clay, and of light sand occur, but their pleasantness compensates for their lessened fertility, when compared with the gravelly loam or mold of the adjacent tracts. The towns of Kingsbury, Queensbury, Hartford and Granville, with those immediately on the N., present to my mind such contrarieties of geological structure, that general description appears impossible; and a volume would barely afford room for just discrimination of local detail.

The country around Lake George, exhibits a most singular geological confusion, where an almost infinite variety of stones and earths are found on a small space, as if promiscuously collected by some mighty effort. And the geology of all the northern part of Washington County is highly interesting; presenting a fine, an ample field for scientific research and philosophical enquiry. The agriculture of the southern part, is very respectable and productive. In the northern part, which is comparatively new, the pine forests supply large quantities of lumber, in logs, square timber, boards, shingles, &c., that descend the Hudson in rafts. And rafts of lumber ascend Lake George with little labor, during a N. wind, to Caldwell, whence it is conveyed by land 14 miles to Fort-Edward on the Hudson. The manufactures are shewn in the General Summary, page 49; and few counties produce more of clothing from household industry. The roads are numerous; and the northern turnpike from Lansingburgh to Wells, in Vermont, leading through the Kingston, a Post-Township, the capital of Ulster County, on the W. shore of the Hudson, 100 miles N. of New-York, and 65 S. of Albany; bounded N. by Saugerties, E. by the Hudson, S. by Esopus, or Wallkill creek, W. by Hurley. In 1811, Kingston, which was a very large Township, and contained a population of 5760 souls, was divided into three towns;—Kingston in the centre, Saugerties from the N. end, and Esopus from the S. Since this division, there has been no census of the inhabitants; but an intelligent Correspondent assigns 2540 to Kingston, 2194 to Saugerties, and 1026 to Esopus, as the probable numbers. And on this ratio, the present number of senatorial electors in Kingston, would be 267. It now comprises an area of near 50 square miles, extending 10 miles along the Hudson. The soil is good, and the farms are under good old-fashioned cultivation. Many of the houses are built of lime-stone, which is very plenty here and of a good quality, and the inhabitants possess much wealth. Esopus creek runs near 15 miles in this Town, and on the boundary toward Saugerties; and Walkill creek, along the southern boundary, has a course of about 5 miles, so that Kingston is amply supplied with mill-streams, and it has also several Landings on the Hudson, of very considerable business. It is a common feature of Dutch and German population in this country, to multiply the distinctions of places by local names: and a Township of 10 miles square, inhabited by those people, will have probably 10 times as many names to designate parts of its area, as it would if inhabited by English Americans. Kingston Village is incorporated, and well merits separate notice; at Flatbush is a new Dutch Reformed church of stone: at Greenkills, in the S. W. corner, are several corn-mills; and there are several Landings, where are vessels employed in the river-trade, as Columbus, the Strand, Twalf's kill, &c., and at Eddy's cotton factory there is a very handsome settlement. There are several bridges across Esopus creek, Saw creek, and Walkill creek. The common lands, or those held in trust for the Town, are principally leased by the Trustees, in perpetuity, and the other lands are held by right of soil. There are several mills of various kinds, a pottery, cotton factory, and a manufactory also of snuff and tobacco.

Kingston Village is pleasantly laid out on a handsome sandy level, considerably elevated, on the S. side of Esopus creek, 10 miles S. of its mouth in the Hudson, and 3 miles W. of the Hudson at Kingston Landing. It is 100 miles N. of New-York, and 65 S. of Albany, on the stage-road between these two places. This Village is incorporated, and contains 150 houses and stores, an academy, church, and court-house and prison for the county; the whole population in 1810 was 1082. The public buildings, and many others, are of blue lime-stone. The compact part covers about 80 acres, handsomely laid out in large lots, with gardens, &c. There are also a fire-engine-house, market, 2 printing-offices, and a public library. The flats along the Esopus creek, in front of the Village, are uncommonly rich and beautiful. The inhabitants are rich and not luxurious. Kingston was one of the earliest Dutch settlements in this State In 1662 it had a settled minister, and the county records commence about that period. The Village was burnt by the British, under Vaughan, in Oct. 1777, and great quantities of stores destroyed. It was then commonly called Esopus.

Kortright, a Post-Township of Delaware County, 6 to 15 miles N. of Delhi, 62 miles S. W. of Albany: bounded N. by Otsego County, E. by Harpersfield, S. by Stamford or Delaware river, W. by Meredith and Franklin. Its form seems copied from the German civil divisions, except that none of its lines are circular. It extends from Charlotte Creek and the Susquehanna to the Delaware, being about 11 miles; and along the former 14 miles, the latter 9 miles; and it encloses near one half, at the N. E. end, of the Town of Meredith. It has a turnpike road from Catskill, the principal market of the N. part of this county, as Kingston is of the S. The general surface is broken by hills and vallies, the soil principally a chocolate colored loam, moist, good for meadow and pasture. The land is held by lease, paying annually about $12 1-2 per 100 acres. There are 2 houses for public worship, and 14 common school-houses. There are 161 looms in families, which produced in 1810, 41,821 yards of cloth; and there is 1 distillery of whiskey, with 1 carding-machine and 2 fulling-mills. The inhabitants are principally Irish, with some Scotch and a few English. There were 500 families in 1810, when the whole population was 2993, with 388 taxable inhabitants, and $154,066 of taxable property.

Kinderhook Creek, one of the best streams for mills in the United States, is formed of numerous branches that spread over the N. E. of Columbia, and the S. E. corner of Rensselaer County, which, united, run to the S. W. through the Town of Kinderhook. Here the stream takes this name, and runs southerly to Claverack creek, which it meets near the Hudson, and both lose their names for Factory and Major Abram's creek. See Columbia County, and also Kinderhook. Its waters are collected from a good farming country, where, with its branches, they supply abundance of mill-seats.

LANSINGBURGH, a Post-Township of Rensselaer County, on the E. bank of the Hudson, 3 miles N. of Troy, and 9 N. of Albany; bounded N. by Schaghticoke, E. by Brunswick, S. by Troy, W. by the Hudson. Its extent along the Hudson, about 2 miles, and it is 1 mile wide, embracing the most or all of the river-hill. It is a small but valuable tract of land, and comprises the incorporated Village or Borough of Lansingburgh, formerly known by the name of the "New City." The N. end is opposite the Village of Waterford, between which places there is a toll-bridge across the Hudson, the first across that river, as we ascend from the Ocean. The soil along the river is principally a coarse gravelly loam, or rich mold, and the flats are very extensive. The road from Troy leads along the river bank, and is one of the handsomest in the state. The river is navigated to the Village, in some seasons, with large sloops, but the tides are very rarely felt here, and Lansingburgh is rather above the present head of sloop navigation, though small sloops commonly ascend to this place. Great efforts are making to improve the navigation, by deepening the channel, and by constructin

the trade and population of Newburgh. There are abundance of mill-seats, on a small stream that spreads over the Town in numerous branches, and enters the Hudson at the S. W. corner, on the line toward New-Windsor. The Village of Newburgh, is pleasantly situated on the Hudson, and commands a very extensive intercourse and trade with the country on the W., and by navigation of the Hudson, with New-York. Its trade employs near 30 vessels, and few places on the Hudson are increasing more rapidly in wealth and population. It is incorporated as a Village, and contains about 400 houses, stores, &c., besides a court-house and prison for the County and several other public buildings. The Town is handsomely laid out in streets and squares. The Courts for Orange County are held alternately here and at Goshen.

New-Castle, a Township of Westchester County, about 37 miles N. of New-York, 128 S. of Albany, and 6 miles W. of Bedford; bounded N. by Cortlandt, York and Somers, E. by Bedford, S. by North-Castle, S. W. by Mount-Pleasant. Its form, like most of the other Towns in this County, is very irregular; and its N.W. angle terminates in a point on Hudson river. Its waters are some small branches of Croton river, which supply mill-seats, and a small head pond of Byram creek, that runs S. to the Sound. There is little for local detail. The surface is moderately uneven, and the soil pretty good for farming. Its agriculture and domestic economy are much improved within a few years. In 1810, the whole taxable property was valued by the Assessors at $240,758, when there were 209 taxable inhabitants, and a whole population of 1291.

New-Lisbon, a Post-Township of Otsego County, 10 miles S. W. of Cooperstown, and 76 W. of Albany; bounded N. by Edmeston, E. by Hartwick, S. by Laurens and Butternuts, W. by Pittsfield. The surface is broken by hills and vallies; but the hills are either arable or good grazing lands, and the vallies are rich and fertile. It is well watered by springs and brooks; and has Butternut creek running S. the whole length of the Town, on which are good mill-seats, as there are also on the main branch of Otego creek, in the E. part of the Town. There are, in all, 4 or 5 grain-mills, 7 saw-mills, a fulling-mill and carding-machine. There is 1 Baptist meeting-house, and 7 school-houses. The inhabitants are principally farmers, and their houshold manufactures supply the most of their common clothing. In 1810, the whole population was 1982, with 176 senatorial electors, 290 taxable inhabitants, and $131,052 of taxable property, agreeable to the assessment.—Garratsville Post-Office is said to be in this Town, though my Correspondents differ in this particular. The County of Otsego, though it contain much good arable land, good for grain, may be called better adapted for grass than grain; and for grazing is peculiarly excellent.

N.T., J.P. &E.P.

New-Paltz, a Post-Township of Ulster County, on the W. shore of the Hudson, 15 miles S. of Kingston, 80 miles S. of Albany, and 85 N. of New-York; bounded N. by Hurley and Esopus, E. by the Hudson, W. by Rochester and Shawangunk. It extends 10 miles along the river, and is from 6 to 12 miles back. The Wallkill or Paltz creek runs N. through the W. part of this Town, and supplies mill-seats. This is a good Township of land, and its farms have old and durable improvements. The inhabitants are principally the descendants of the ancient Dutch, who settled here about 1670. Many of the houses are of stone, a common trait of the Dutch and German character. And lime stone, of a good quality for lime, and which quarries well, is found here in great abundance. The Village usually called Old Paltz, is on the bank of the Wallkill, over which is a good bridge. It lies on one street, in which are 20 stone dwelling-houses, and a stone Dutch Reformed Church. The settlement called Springtown, is about 2 miles N. of this, where are a few houses, principally taverns.—On the Farmer's turnpike, which leads through this Town, there is a beautiful settlement, where are some few dwellings, corn-mills and saw-mills, an oil-mill, fulling-mill, and carding-machine, all built of wood, neatly painted, and owned principally by Selah Tuthill. This is commonly called New-Paltz. Near the river is a Quaker meeting-house; and there is a Landing on the Hudson, with considerable business. There are 208 looms in families, which made in 1810, 57,729 yards of cloth for common clothing. The whole population in 1810, was 3999, when there were 259 senatorial electors. The inhabitants own the soil, divided into farms of a convenient number of acres.

Newport, a Post-Township of Herkimer County, 20 miles N. of Herkimer, and 95 N. W. of Albany; bounded N. by Russia, E. by Norway, S. by Herkimer and Schuyler, Westerly by Oneida County. Along the W. Canada creek is a deep valley, where stands the Village of Newport, or Bowen's Settlement, near the centre of the Town, where are falls and good mill-seats, with some mills and a Cotton factory. About one quarter of Newport is on the N. E. side of W. Canada creek, which is hilly, but interspersed with fine vallies of a light easy soil. The other side has a high ridge, with sloping arable borders, somewhat broken, but which admit of cultivation, almost without exception.

The general character of the soil and products is similar to that of Norway, except that the lands are less stony. Along the creek, they are sandy, rather light but warm. This Town was erected in 1806, from Norway, Fairfield and Schuyler. In 1810, it had 270 families, 86 senatorial electors, and the whole population was 1605. Newport Village has 25 dwellings, and the Post-Office, 13 miles from Utica, on the road to the Black River country.

New-Rochelle, a Post-Township of Westchester County, 20 or 22 miles from New-York, 5 S. of White-Plains, and 143 from Albany; bounded N. by Scarsdale, E. by Scarsdale and Mamaroneck, W. by Scarsdale, Westchester and Pelham, S. on East River or Long-Island Sound. There are several islands in the Sound attached to this Town.—There is a Landing and business that employs several sloops. The land is level in general, and stony, but the soil is productive, and much of it is a wet loam or clay, good for grass. There are 4 grain-mills, 2 of which are tide-mills, and some smaller works. The Episcopalians and Methodists have churches or houses of worship, and there is a small academy, with a competent number of common schools. In 1810, the whole population was 996, with 78 electors, 175 taxable inhabitants, and 323,294 dollars of taxable property. New-Rochelle had also its Heights, known in the annals of the Revolution. See the History of the War in 1776, for a detailed view of the operations that have left so many remembrances in this Town.

PLATTEKILL, a Township in the S. E. of Ulster County, 22 miles S. of Kingston, bounded N. by New-Paltz, E. by Marlborough in Orange County, W. by Shawangunk. Its area is about 30 square miles. The roads are very numerous, and pretty good. It is a good Township of farming land, and has little to invite minute detail. The inhabitants are principally farmers, of plain economical habits, and much of their clothing is the product of the houshold wheel and loom. There are 109 looms in families, which annually make about 25,000 yards of cloth for common clothing. Its agriculture is rapidly improving, though still inferior to that of the farming Towns of Dutchess County, on the opposite side of the river. In 1810, the whole population was 1936, with 135 senatorial electors.

PLAINFIELD, a Post-Township at the N. W. extremity of Otsego County, 15 miles N. W. of Cooperstown, and 81 from Albany; bounded N. by the County line, and by the Town of Richfield, E. by Exeter, S. by Edmeston, W. by Madison County. It is washed on the W. by Unadilla creek or river of the Susquehanna, within a few miles of its head, and has some small streams that run into this. The S. part is considerably hilly, but the lands are rich in the vallies, and the N. W. part is level and rich. There are 4 or 5 grain and saw-mills, an oil-mill, and some other similar works. It has 2 turnpikes leading E. and W. across the N. end, besides other common roads. The pastures of this country are uncommonly excellent, and its dairy has a high reputation. The situation is elevated, on the head lands that separate the waters of the Mohawk from those of the Susquehanna. In 1810, the whole population was 2122, with 168 senatorial electors, 240 taxable inhabitants, and 123,879 dollars of taxable property.

PLATTSBURGH, a Post-Township, the capital of Clinton County, 160 miles N. of Albany; bounded N. by Chazy and Mooers, E. by Lake Champlain or the State of Vermont, S. by Peru, W. by Franklin County. It is well watered by Saranac river which runs Eastward to Lake Champlain, and by several small branches that supply abundance of mill-seats. The E. end of this Town, along the lake, is very level, and the W. part either hilly or mountainous. The land is under pretty good cultivation, and it is by far the most populous Town in the County. In 1810, the whole population was 3112, when there were 224 electors. For some remarks on the trade, &c., see PERU, minutely described. The inhabitants are principally farmers, of domestic and peaceful habits. Their houshold manufactures supply the common and much of the fine clothing. A road thro' Plattsburgh by Elizabethtown and Essex County, and Caldwell of Washington County, opens a nearer way of travel to Canada than that on the E. side of Lake Champlain, by many miles. And this will soon be the principal route from Albany. From Plattsburgh there is also a road that curves N. W. across the N. end of Franklin to St. Lawrence, Lewis and Jefferson Counties. Cumberland Head, is a peninsula that forms Cumberland bay of Lake Champlain, into which the Saranac empties at the Village of Plattsburgh. From this Village, the land rises gently to the W., and presents an elegant display of rural scenery. The soil of the level part is a strong productive loam, about equally divided into arable and grass lands. Plattsburgh Village, is handsomely laid out, at the mouth of Saranac river, and contains about 70 houses and stores, a Presbyterian church, and several mills, besides the court-house and prison for the County. It is a place of very considerable business. The United States' barracks are 4 miles above the village, on the Saranac. They were erected in 1812. Plattsburgh is situated in 44° 42′ N. Lat., and 35′ E. longitude from New-York; distant from that city 330 miles on the present travelling route; 43 miles from St. John's in Lower Canada, (by water,) 63 from Montreal, and 223 from Quebec. It is also 112 miles N. of Whitehall, at the head of Lake Champlain.

PLYMOUTH, a Post-Township of Chenango County, 7 miles N. W. of Norwich, and 107 W. of Albany; bounded N. by Smyrna, E. by Norwich, S. by Preston, W. by Pharsalia. It is 6 miles square, being Township No. 11 of the 20 Townships, as designated on the Maps of the Surveyor-General, and was organized in 1807. The surface is uneven, and some part hilly, but there are good proportions of arable, meadow, and grazing lands, and of a very good quality. About two thirds of the whole is in farms, and it is well watered by springs, brooks and mill-streams. The principal stream is Canasawacta creek, which runs S. E. to the Chenango, about half a mile below Norwich Village. This is a good stream for mills, and some of its branches afford mill-seats also, as does Cole's brook in the E. part. The principal timber is maple, beech, elm, basswood, white-ash and black-cherry. There is a small village near the centre of this Town, called Francisville, pleasantly situated, and increasing in population. There are 8 school-houses, and schools are pretty liberally supported. In 1810, the whole population was 1285, with 114 electors, and 82,177 dollars of taxable property.

POMFRET, a large Post-Township of Chatauqua County, erected March 11, 1808. It comprises Townships Nos. 1 to 6 inclusive of Ranges 10 and 11; and 5 and 6 of the 12th Range. Its length N. and S., is about 36 miles, and it is from 12 to 18 miles wide; bounded N. by Cataraugus creek, or the County of Niagara, E. by Cataraugus Co., S. by Pennsylvania, W. by the Town of Chatauqua, and N. W. by Lake Erie. This country was first settled in 1805, and is fast peopling by emigrants from the Eastern States.—There are now about 300 inhabitants, and many families are expected during the summer of 1810. The soil is good, with but little waste land; no mountains or considerable hills. Oak, chesnut and walnut, form the greatest proportion of the forest trees. The face of the country is agreeably undulated with gentle swells and fertile vallies, and very well watered with small streams, and with springs and brooks. Canadaway creek, a sizable mill-stream, traverses 10 or 12 miles, affording many mill-seats, and enters L. Erie 12 miles S. Westerly of Cataraugus creek. About 6 miles from the mouth of the Canadaway, is a beautiful cascade of the whole stream, 16 feet high. Here is one saw-mill. And 2 miles below, at the crossing of the State road, is the Village of CANADAWAY, with a Post-Office, a grist and saw-mill, several mechanics' shops, &c. The Village plat is one mile on each side of the creek. A sulphur spring, emitting hydrogene gas, is supposed to have been found in the water of this creek, near its mouth.—Lake Cosdauga heads in this Town, as do also Silver and Walnut creeks. The farmers generally manufacture the most of their wearing apparel; and grain and grass do extremely well. There are 2

The interior surface is moderately uneven, and the soil various, as is the timber, though principally pine, with some oak, walnut and chesnut. In 1810 the taxable property amounted to 233,415 dollars, when there were 216 electors, and a whole population of 1711, including 22 slaves. See Southold, for the early history, &c., this Town having been erected from the W. part of that in 1792. And for its present domestic economy, the character of its inhabitants, &c., see also Southold, to save a dull repetition. Happily for my readers, few will ever have occasion to read a Gazetteer in the order of its pages, and I shall of course find little commiseration for the drudgery of detailed description, so minute, similar and uninteresting. What then? Every Town, Village, and other subject of description, must have its proportion of local detail, and I seize an amiable and interesting trait which merits eminent notice, determined to persevere, unmindful of my labor, though I cannot forget the perplexing difficulties that thicken upon me in the way of its just execution. Thanks to the liberality of my Correspondents, I have abundant materials, but the just scale of discrimination in determining what to reject and what to detail, can only be known by personal inspection.

In 1810, there were 330 taxable inhabitants, and on an average of 10 years, there had not been more than 5 persons entered on the Records as Town Poor; the tax for the support of which, with all other incidental Town expenses, does not exceed, annually, $250. The whole number of dwellings 270. The inhabitants are of English American descent, plain in their manners, sober, frugal, hospitable and industrious. There are 4 houses for public worship; 3 for Congregationalists, and one for Presbyterians; and 7 school-houses. Peconic creek, which forms the S. boundary of Riverhead, supplies 3 grain-mills, 4 saw-mills, 2 fulling-mills, a carding-machine, bloomery, and some other water works. The agriculture is rapidly improving, as are the houshold manufactures, natural consequences of an improved care and selection of the best breeds of domestic stock. Cord-wood, for fuel, is sent to New-York in great quantities, and the principal trade for foreign articles is direct with that City. Peconic Bay, affords water for vessels of 70 tons to the mouth of Peconic creek, 2 1-2 miles from the court-house at Riverhead Village. There are 2 principal roads running E. and W.; North road, about 1 mile from the Sound, and South road, near Peconic river, the main route of travel to New-York. There are 6 Villages and neighborhoods, known by local names;—St. George's Manor, comprises the S.W. part, and has 35 families; Wading River, in the N. W., 30 houses, compact; Baiting-Hollow, near the centre, on the N. road, has 28 houses; Riverhead, on the S. road, has the County buildings, and 14 dwellings—situated near Peconic river where are mills, &c., 2½ miles from the head of Peconic bay; Aquebogue, in the E., and W. Aquebogue, in the W., comprise the eastern part, and have about 140 houses, being the most populous part of the Township.

J.R.&J.F.

Rochester, a large Township of Ulster County, 14 to 20 miles S. W. of Kingston; bounded Northerly by Marbletown, Easterly by New-Paltz, Southerly by Wawarsing, Westerly by Shandaken. It has the Shawangunk mountain in the S. E., on the E. side of which is the line; and on the W. side runs Rondout creek, which receives several branches, the largest of which is Mombackus creek. These streams supply abundance of mill-seats; and the diminished ridges of the Shawangunk mountain present no very lofty or rugged summits, and which, within a few miles is penetrated by Rondout and Esopus creeks. The land is of a pretty good quality for farming, and the houses are distributed over the farms rather than gathered in clusters. Yet Mombackus retains its local name. The whole population in 1810, was 1882 persons, with 149 electors; when there were 128 looms in families, which made that year 26,624 yards of cloth for common clothing.—There is an old stone church, of the Dutch Reformed order, out of repair, and a vacant ministry. The Navasink turnpike from Kingston to Sullivan Co., leads through this Town. Here, as in many other of the old Dutch settlements, are patented lands, held in trust for the inhabitants; but the titles to farms are commonly in fee-simple.

C.T.

Rockland, a Township of Sullivan County, adjoining Ulster and Delaware Counties, erected in 1809; bounded N. E. by Ulster, N. W. by Delaware, S. by Liberty, E. by Navesink—about 15 by 9 miles: the area, 60,000 acres. Population, 309 souls; senatorial electors, 33. Taxable fast property, 106,739 dollars, of which $89,048 is owned by non-residents; personal property, 1554 dollars; aggregate, $108,293, agreeable to the Assessors' books. It is principally within great lots No. 4 and 5 of Hardenbergh Patent. The settlements are new, and the country broken and not very inviting. Lands holden by the possessors, under leases of various duration; some for life. The principal streams are, the Williwemock, and Big and Little Beaver creeks.

L.B.

Rodman, a Post-Township of Jefferson County, formerly Harrison, name changed in 1808, designated Orpheus on De Witt's Maps. It is situated 15 miles E. of Lake Ontario, and 12 W. of Black river; well watered by the N. branch of Great Sandy creek, and some small streams of the other branch: Bounded N. by Watertown and a small part of Rutland, E. by Pinckney, S. by Lorraine, W. by Adams, being 6 miles square. This Town was first settled in 1801, and now contains, 1810, 214 families, and 1281 souls. There were in 1808, 146 senatorial, and 90 assembly electors; in 1810, 213 senatorial electors; and the agricultural improvements have kept pace with the increase of wealth and population. There are 4 grain-mills, 6 saw-mills, one fulling-mill, a carding-machine, and 3 distilleries. As yet no houses of worship are erected, but there are 4 school-houses, in which meetings are held, and a Minister of the Congregational order was settled in 1809. The soil is of a superior quality, and produces wheat, maize, rye, oats, flax, pease, and grass, indifferently; being warm, and congenial for all the common agricultural products of the climate. The apple, pear, plum, and quince tree, succeed well; but the peach tree yields to the severity of the winter frost, though it grows luxuriantly in summer. Iron-ore has been found in small quantities; and the country abounds with pieces of coarse earthen-ware, a common vestige of Indian possession, if not of Indigenal improvement in former times. There are also small mounds or tumuli, and the remains of some labored works, erected for defence or some other purpose. The climate is healthful, and the inhabitants are mostly emigrants from the Eastern States; preserving all their

230 YEARS AGO

New Paltz, N. Y., October 27, 1699—Sara Frere, daughter of the late Hugues Frere, bound herself today to David de Bonrepos and Blanche du Bois, dressmakers of this village; as an apprentice for three years.

In the agreement signed today by both parties, it says in part—"the said David de Bonrepos and Blanche du Bois promise also and bind themselves to feed her, board her, and educate her in the fear of the Lord, and to furnish her with whatever shall be necessary—and above all, to teach her the trade of dressmaking, and at the end of the said three years, to give to her the same number of clothes, both dresses and unrerclothes, as she will bring with her on entering the house of the said David de Bonrepos and Blanche du Bois, and to teach her to read and write in so far as it shall be able for them to do so—."

New Paltz, N. Y.—May, 1700—Jean Tebenin, the second school teacher in this village, resigned today. Mr. Tebenin, who succeeded Jean Cottin, our first school teacher in 1696, has served here four years.

The following recommendation was given to him today—"We, minister and elders, of the French church at the Paltz of the province of New York in America, certify that Mr. Tebenin having lived with us during the space of four years for schoolmaster and for the instruction of our children, has always done the duty of a good and true Christian, frequented our holy assemblies and partaken of the sacrament of the Lord's supper—therefore we recommend him."

New Paltz, N. Y.—1700—Jean Tebenin, former school master here, died today. His will has been found.

He leaves his property and his Bible to the local church. A request, however, in the conclusion of the will, states that if the French language should cease to be used in New Paltz, his copy of the Bible be sold and the proceeds be given to the poor.

New Paltz, N. Y., April 26, 1681—Pierre Deyo, a patentee of this village signed a bond here today in consideration of his indebtedness to Thomas Delavoll of Kingston for 52 schepels of wheat.

The wording of the bond is as follows:—

"I under written Peter dolliaw of ye New Palse doe owne to stand indebted unto mee Thomas Dellavoll ye sum of fifty two Sch. wheatte, wch I doe oblige my self to pay this next year now comings on, whereunto I have sett my hand to be delivered at ye water syde. Pierre doyo."

New Paltz, N. Y., Jan. 23, 1682—Pierre Deyo paid his bond today to Thomas Delavoll.

New Paltz, N. Y., Jan. 16, 1712—Tax bills are being posted today in the gathering places of this village. The rate of tax is "three pence half farthing per pound.

This tax is being raised "to pay said county quota, layed by an act of General Assembly, entitled an act for the levying of ten thousand ounces of plate or fourteen thousand five hundred forty-five Lyon dollars."

Twenty-two names of property holders appear on the list with the valuations assessed against them. The total valuation of this place is 1895 pounds.

The names of four of the original patentees appear on the list. They are among those who are assessed the most. They are, with their assessments,—Abraham Hasbrouck, 200 pounds—Louys Bevier, 300 pounds—Jean Hasbrouck 150 pounds—Abraham Dubois, 270 pounds.

The total tax to be raised in this village is 24 pounds 13 shillings.

New Paltz, N. J., June 28, 1690—Isaac Dubois, one of the original patentees of this village, died here today.

New Paltz, N. Y., 1710.—At the meeting of the Board of Supervisors held at Kingston today, bounties were paid for the killing of wolves in this vicinity during the past year. The increasing numbers of wolves here with the resulting damage they are causing to sheep flocks, has demanded action of this sort.

The county is paying 12 shillings bounty for each carcass. Nineteen wolves were paid for this year.

In addition to the above payments, the Supervisors allowed Exert Wynkoop, 12 shillings for half a vat of beer for the Assessors.

New Paltz, N. Y., 1821.—Washington Irving and Martin Van Buren visited New Paltz today to examine the old historical records here.

A story is in circulation regarding an incident along the Turnpike while on their way here. One of their horses lost a shoe. They stopped at a blacksmith shop for repairs. Martin VanBuren had also lost the cracker off his whip. He went into a nearby store to get some silk to make a new snapper. He succeeded only in getting the silk into a tangled mess.

A bystander who knew him, stepped forward and said, "Well, Mr. Van Buren, I see you are getting the silk into a tangle just like you get people's minds tangled when you argue a case in court."

(Martin VanBuren later became President of the United States.)

and for a day's work for one man, he boarding himself, till next spring, 3 shillings and 3 pence per diem, and to enter this in the book, and also to enter these instructions in the book. In witness whereof we have hereunto affixed our signatures, dated as above.

In the year 1772, on the 8th day of April, we, Jacob Hasbrouck Jr. etc. ordered and authorised Abraham Doiau the Overseer to allow for chopping and carting of the timbers for the roof (kaphout) for the church 10 shillings for each rafter; and for each beam (stukhout) for Wormtens 2 shillings 6 pence a piece and 2 shillings a piece for floor-beams (grondhouten) 33 feet long, and for breaking lime stone, the chopping of the wood for burning lime and for building the lime-oven, 4 shillings per diem, and for horses and wagon and man for carting the lime stone to the oven, and for carting the wood 10 shillings per diem, and for carting a load of lime 9 shillings per diem; for the mason's helpers, they boarding themselves, 4 shillings per diem. For carting a load of boards from Leggewech (sawmill ?) 20 shillings. For carting load of boards from Marbletown 9 shillings. For carting a load of 500 shingles and a load of 350 stone (klinkers) 7 shillings. For boarding the workingmen 1 shilling per diem. Also to order beer and a barrel of rum for the workingmen. For carting sand 6 shillings per day, and also to order loaf sugar. In witness whereof etc.

On this 5th day of September 1772 the Overseer Abraham Doiau (Doyo) has rendered account to us the six churchmasters according to the instructions of our congregation of the expenses up to now incurred in building the church, which expenses amount to £479.8.11. We audited the said account and found the same to be correct and full. And we further order and authorise the overseer to order from New York all the paint and oil that shall be needed for painting the church.

Translated from a loose piece of paper :

NEW PALTZ, NOV. 1, 1782. 1782

Whereas reading and singing during religious service are not only beautiful (een zierraedt) but also in accordance with the word of God and the canons of the church, therefore the Reverend Consistory, after Mr. Coddington for sufficient reasons had resigned, have unanimously elected Mr. Simeon Low, and contracted with him for the amount of £3 annually. For which reason, in order to satisfy the aforesaid person, we earnestly request the congregation to assist us, and to subscribe in order to annually pay him, as long as he shall faithfully perform his service. The surplus shall be carefully saved until the needs of the church shall require it.

RESOLUTION OF THE CONSISTORY.

(Entered among the Baptismal records in Book 3, and probably refers to the registering of the names of children for baptism.)

Whereas, there are many people who do not contribute towards the salary, or so little that it does not pay for the registration and the book, let alone a proportionate contribution for the annual service; THEREFORE, we, the Consistory, resolve that whosoever contributes nothing, or below three shillings, towards the salary, shall pay his three shillings, one half for the Registrar, the rest shall be put away in the box (koffertje) for general expenses. The Quæstor shall be

LIST OF SLAVEHOLDERS IN 1755.

The next list of property holders of any kind that we find is a list of slaveholders in 1755 in the Documentary History of New York. Samuel Bevier, Philip Bevier, Jacobus Bevier, Abm. Bevier, Christian Doyo, Abm. Doyo, Peter Doyo, Jr., Sarah Hasbrouck (widow of Solomon), Benjamin Hasbrouck (Wallkill), Daniel Hasbrouck, Jacob Hasbrouck, Lewis DuBois, Solomon DuBois, Benj. DuBois, Hendricus DuBois, Simon DuBois, Hugo Freer, Isaac Freer, Mary LeFevre (widow of Isaac), Petronella LeFevre (widow of Simon), Nathaniel LeFevre, Abm. LeFevre, Andries LeFevre, Abm. Hardenburgh, Geesje Ean (widow of Jan), Anetje Vandemark, Noah Eltinge, Capt. Josiah Eltinge.

Abm. Hardenburgh and Solomon DuBois each owned 7 slaves, Simon DuBois 6 and others a less number. The list shows that in 1755 all the sons of the Patentees were dead except Solomon and Louis DuBois, Jr., Samuel Bevier, Daniel and Jacob Hasbrouck.

VALUE OF THE PRECINCT OF NEW PALTZ IN 1765

We copy from a collection warrant dated at Kingston, August 27, 1765, the list given below of the estimated value of the real and personal estates of the precinct of New Paltz. The warrant was signed by "Dirck Wynkoop, Jr., John Dumond, Charles Dewit, Elias Depuy, Abraham Hardenburgh, Johannis H. Jansen and John Wandle—Supervisors elected and chosen for the several towns, manor and precincts of Ulster county." It was issued to raise money, pursuant to an Act to raise £52,000 for paying 1,715 men to be employed in an expedition against the French fort at Crown Point and against the Indians; and to raise £100,000 for paying the expenses of 2,600 for the invasion of Canada; and also to raise £100,000 and £60,000 for like purposes under other Acts. One hundred and thirteen pounds, three shillings eight pence and one-fifth of a farthing was the amount to be collected from the precinct of New Paltz. This precinct then included the present town of New Paltz, the whole of Lloyd and parts of the towns of Rosendale, Esopus and Gardiner.

The warrant directed that after the tax was collected it should be lodged in the hands of Col. Abraham Hasbrouck, county treasurer, retaining the fees.

In 1765 there were only six Townships in the entire county, viz: Kingston, Marbletown, Hurley, Rochester, Shawangunk and New Paltz. Coddington

Cornell

Vande Merken

Dirck Wynkoop, Jr., represented Kingston; Abraham Hardenburgh, New Paltz; Johannes H. Jansen, Shawangunk; Elias Depuy, Rochester. The remaining three Supervisors, viz: John Dumond, Ch. Dewitt and John Wandle must have represented the towns of Hurley and Marbletown and a precinct or manor not yet organized into a Township.

This assessment roll is valuable, not only as showing who were taxpayers and the amount of each assessment in 1765, but it is still more useful because with the aid of some corroborating evidence, we are able to determine where nearly all of the larger taxpayers lived.

It is evident that the assessor in making out the roll commenced at the south bonds of the precinct as it then was at what is now Tuthill and continued on the west side of the Wallkill until reaching the north bounds of the Patent at Mud Hook; then crossing the Wallkill returned to the village on the east side of the stream and then passed on south to the Plains and Kettelboro; thence east to Jenkintown and the Freer patent, and finally picked up the small taxpayers along the Hudson River and elsewhere.

As far as the Huguenot names on the roll are concerned it must be remembered that in this list we are dealing with the grandsons of the Patentees.

Commencing with the first name on the list, Peter Deyo is the son of Hendricus and lived at Tuthill where he had descendants living until modern times. Peter and his son had a patent for land in Shawangunk.

Abraham Hardenbergh, who was Supervisor and one of the heaviest taxpayers lived in a stone house, recently tumbled into ruins, just below Tuthill. Here the family had a large tract of land. Abraham Hardenbergh's grandsons Abraham and Jacob were the last of the name to occupy the land of their ancestors, Abraham living in the fine, old brick house near the Guilford church and Jacob on the old homestead, where Crines Jenkins who married Jacob's daughter Rachel afterward lived.

Abraham Hasbrouck who comes next and is assessed for the heaviest amount is Col. Abraham Hasbrouck of Kingston. This farm at Guilford is still owned in the family. Col. Abraham Hasbrouck was probably the most prominent man in the county in his day.

Hendricus and Cornelius DuBois are brothers, sons of Solomon. Philip is Hendricus' son. Hendricus lived on the Capt. Jacob M. DuBois place of our day, Cornelius a short distance south of where Capt. W. H. D. Blake now lives, Philip kept a public house at Libertyville. Cornelius and Hendricus were men of large means and influential in the community as their descendants are at the present day.

sons. Here Roelif J. Deyo kept a store in Revolutionary times. Abraham afterward lived in the house about a mile north of the village, which has ever since been in the family and where his great grandson S. L. F. Elting now lives.

Andries LeFevre, Jr., who is the last of that line of LeFevres, lived with his mother Petronella in the old homestead, since torn down, in the north part of the present church yard.

Winetie Hasbrouck is the widow of Daniel, son of Abraham the Patentee. She lived with her six sons directly across the street from the present church building and the house is still owned in the family.

Johannes M. Low lived in the house which had come to him from his father-in-law Hugo Freer, Sn. and this is still standing, being the most northern of the old stone houses on the street.

The next two names on the list, Abraham Vandemark and Benj. I. Freer, we can not place.

The next name, Lewis Bevier, puzzles us, as there was no person of the name at New Paltz. Possibly the Bevier homestead in this village had not yet been bought by Josiah Eltinge and belonged to Louis Bevier of Marbletown or Louis of Wawarsing.

Nathaniel LeFevre lived on the Plains in the house of his father Jean. His mother Carolintje and his son Matthew, who afterward occupied the place, are assessed for small amounts.

Noah Elting is the brother of Josiah. He lived on the estate where his father Roelif had lived in his old age and where Edmund Eltinge lived in our day.

Dominie Moriches Goetchius was the minister of the churches at New Paltz and Shawangunk from 1760 to 1771, living at Shawangunk, where he died in 1771.

Lewis DuBois is the Capt. Lewis J. DuBois of Revolutionary times. His house, a frame building, is still standing, south of the Libertyville ford on the east side of the Wallkill and is now owned by his descendant, Henry L. DuBois.

Abram and Andries LeFevre are brothers and the pioneers at Kettelboro.

The assessor now turns east. The two Terwilligers, Joseph and Jonathan, lived we think on the Plattekill, east of Jenkintown.

Isaac and Joseph Freer owned the next farm on the north. This is the Freer patent and some part still owned in the family.

Petrus Van Wagenen is the ancestor of all the Van Wagenens in New Paltz. He lived in a stone house, still standing but not occupied, about a mile north of Put Corners.

Abraham Donaldson probably lived at Elmore's Corners, as the Donaldson family located there at an early date.

David and Christian Auchmoody are sons of Jeems Auchmoody, the first of the name at New Paltz.

Most of the other names are for small amounts. Some of them we recognize as the ancestors of people in Highland and vicinity: Devoe, Mackey, Palmatier, Pressler, Wisemiller.

Phelick Ransom lived at Highland and was afterward a captain in the Revolutionary army.

Jacob DuBois lived near Tuthill and had in 1757 purchased a tract lying on both sides of the Wallkill including the island at Tuthill. His son Isaac kept his homestead and his son Jacob lived where Gardiner village now is. His old home was a short distance south of Kingston. He was probably the son of Isaac DuBois who was of Kingston and his wife Neiltje Rose, as they had a son Jacob, baptised in 1733. Isaac was the son of Jacob of Hurley, who was one of the seven sons of Louis the Patentee.

Abraham and Jacobus Bevier are brothers, sons of Samuel and grandsons of Louis the Patentee. Abraham lived just south of Butterville. His wife was Margaret, daughter of Roelif Eltinge, the first of the name at New Paltz. Their son Abraham moved to Chenango county.

Benjamin DuBois was the first of the name at Springtown and his descendants still reside there and until recently a little further north. Benjamin is the son of Daniel and grandson of Isaac the Patentee.

Jonas Freer is the son of Hugo, senior, and grandson of the Patentee. Jonas lived at Kline Bontecoe on what is now the R. V. N. Beaver place. His descendants reside in various places in this vicinity. Garret Freer is the nephew of Jonas and son of Hugo, jun. of Bontecoe.

Christopher Deyo lived at Springtown. He is the brother of Peter and Johanes, whose names have appeared on the list and of Benjamin, whose name comes later. Christopher is the ancestor of Rev. Paul T. Deyo.

Moses Deyo is the son of Christian and grandson of Pierre the Patentee. He and his son Christian, Jr. reside where their descendants have since lived and near where James E. and Matthew Deyo now reside.

Jacobus Hasbrouck is the son of Solomon. He probably owned the Simon L. DuBois farm. At any rate his son Benjamin owned it and gave a life estate in it to his son.

We have now come to the Freer settlement at Mud Hook and Bontecoe. Hugo jun. is the son of Hugo, sen., Jacob is his cousin. Hugo, John and Benjamin are Hugo, jun.'s sons.

The assessor having crossed the Wallkill, at what is now Perrine's Bridge, is coming southward on the east side of the stream.

Benjamin Deyo, who is the ancestor of the Bontocoe Deyos, occupies the house of his father Hendricus, which is known as the Abm. W. Deyo farm in our day.

The three LeFevres, Daniel, Petrus and Johannes, are sons of Isaac, the first of the name at Bontecoe.

Abraham Ean is the son of Jan and grandson of Elias. His farm, which is still owned in the family joined the LeFevre estate on the south as it does, to-day.

Here the assessor makes a break and inserts the name of Nathaniel DuBois, who built the first mill at Libertyville and is the son of Jonathan and grandson of Louis, jun.

Right here should come the names of Petrus and John Hasbrouck, sons of Solomon, which do not appear on the roll until a little later. Petrus owned and occupied what is now the Walsh house at Middletown and John the old stone house of his father, a short distance south, which tumbled into ruins about 1870.

We are now back to the village. - New Paltz

Jacob Hasbrouck, Jr. built at a later date the house where his greatgrandson Abm. M. Hasbrouck now lives, but in 1765 he was living and quite certainly keeping a store in what is now the Memorial House.

Abraham Deyo (2) lived in the homestead in this village, which passed from one Abraham to another and is now owned by Abm. Deyo Brodhead.

Simon DuBois is the son of Daniel and grandson of Isaac the Patentee. He occupied the house now owned by his descendants, Mary DuBois Berry's daughters, which has always been in the family and is the oldest house in the village. Maritje (widow) who is assessed for a small amount is Simon's mother.

Josiah Eltinge owned and occupied the house still called the "Eltinge Homestead," and Roelif J. and Abraham are his Joseph Coddington was the village schoolmaster in those days. 1750's – 1800 ?

Daniel Deyo lived a short distance north of what is now Ireland Corners and is the ancestor of that branch of the Deyo family. Daniel's father Abm. who resided in this village, still owned the farm in 1765.

CHAPTER XI

The Contract of 1744

In this contract the owners of the patent, 34 in all, bind themselves each to the other for fifteen years to pay all assessments made by the twelve men for expenses in defending the claim of title of any owner. The document is in English and is here transcribed verbatim et literatim.

bring their wool there to have it carded and then their wives and daughters would weave and spin it. Some women would go from house to house as spinsters.

In those old days some farmers would tan their own sole leather, but the upper leather was manufactured at the tannery. About 1812 Wm. McDonald, a Scotchman, had a tannery and residence on the east side of the Wallkill, about 200 yards below the present railroad bridge at Springtown. A millstone still marks the site, but the buildings have disappeared and the land passed into the possession of Roelif Hasbrouck and subsequently of Charles Eltinge. McDonald's wife was a Krom, from Marbletown. After a while he sold the tannery and located just south of Perry Deyo's residence, on the road to Libertyville, where he built a house.

About 1815 Rowland DeGarmo, father of Wm. H. DeGarmo, came from Dutchess county and settled at Butterville, where he started a tannery and carried on an extensive business. In those days oak bark was used exclusively for tanning. He would send around his teams to the farmers at butchering time and gather up hides, which he would tan on shares.

In those days John Hait, father of Thad Hait, carried on the tanning business in Plattekill. There was a tannery at Centerville, and another which carried on a large business at the lower toll-gate on the Turnpike. Now there is not a tannery in Southern Ulster.

TEACHERS ABOUT 1820 AND EARLIER

We have found among the old papers information concerning only one schoolmaster during the Dutch-speaking period in New Paltz, that is from about 1750 to 1800. This was

JOSEPH CODDINGTON & CATHERINE VANDEM
Sarah
b.1758

Joseph Coddington, who was probably the ancestor of the Coddington family in Ulster county, though we have no information on that point. Joseph Coddington's name first appears on the church book in 1758, when he and his wife, Catharine Vandemark, had a child, Sarah, baptized. At different dates the baptism of other children are recorded. When the second stone church was built in 1771 Joseph Coddington performed a great amount of clerical work, every item of which is set down minutely in the church book and for which he charged £12 19s. In a document dated 1781 Jonathan LeFevre, grandfather of Hon. Jacob LeFevre, and his brother John leased for ten years to Joseph Coddington, schoolmaster, without any rent except payment of taxes, lots No. 15 and 199, being a portion of the 1,529 acres granted by letters patent to Noah Eltinge and Nathaniel LeFevre and being within the neighborhood annexed to New Paltz. Mr. Coddington was at that time becoming advanced in years and had probably concluded to give up his school, which must have been in the old stone building, now the John Drake residence, and end his days as a farmer. We have no further information concerning Joseph Coddington. Nor have we any information concerning teachers at New Paltz in the period succeeding the Revolutionary War.

ALEXANDER DOAG

One of the most noted teachers in the Kettleborough neighborhood and elsewhere in southern Ulster in the early part of the last century was Alexander Doag. He was a Scotchman, educated at the University of Edinburgh and taught at Kettleborough for a considerable period. about 1815. Although a man of fine education he was a slave of the drink habit. Each morning, on arriving at the schoolhouse he would take a drink

THE FRENCH AND INDIAN WAR, 1754-1763

Francis Parkman, the historian, in his work entitled "France and England in North America," Vol. 1, pp. 153, 156, makes the following statement: "Washington on the Youghiogany, a branch of the Monongahela River, met the French under command of Coulon de Jumonville, an ensign. Washington gave the word to fire. A short fight ensued. Jumonville was killed, with nine others; twenty-two were captured, and none escaped but a Canadian who had fled at the beginning of the fray. This obscure skirmish began the war that set the world on fire."

Another noted American historian, Benson J. Lossing, in "Our Country," Vol. 2, p. 525, made the following comment on the same event: "Washington, who was at the head of the party and carried a musket, when he saw the Frenchmen, shouted 'Fire!' and at the same time discharged his own gun among them. This was the first blood shed in the French and Indian war. So was opened by young Washington, who fired the first gun, that long and bitter contest for the rights of man which, like an earthquake, shattered into fragments the institutions of feudal ages which had been transplanted in our country, and shook the foundations of society in Europe. This skirmish, which occurred on the 28th of May, 1754, made a profound impression."

Rev. War p. 313 ff.

The Van der Mark family, always found fighting for Liberty and Justice, was represented in this war by the following members. There may have been others who served in 1757, but that is uncertain as the records for that year are lost.

Stray Leaves From the Early History of New Paltz and Vicinity.

FISHING IN THE WALLKILL.

In the old days fish were no doubt abundant in the Wallkill. We have spoken of the building of a fish weir by the Bontekoe people which was abandoned. We have since been informed that the building of the dam raised the water so much in the stream above that it was abandoned on account of the harm that would be thus caused. But from our village to Libertyville, there are the ruins still remaining of no less than 6 fish weirs, all of which may be seen when the stream is low. These weirs could be built only where there was a rift or ford. There have been no attempts of late years to catch fish in this portion of the Wallkill by means of weirs.

THE GARDINER DEYOS.

As far as we know all the Deyos at present residing in the towns of Gardiner and Shawangunk, are descendants from Daniel Deyo, who settled shortly before the time of the Revolution on a tract of 500 acres at Ireland Corners. The original deed to Abraham, the father of Daniel, is now in the possession of Andrew L. F. Deyo It is dated in 1763. The 500 acres on which the settlement was made was a part of the Garland patent (afterwards the property of the sons of Garet Kettletas and the Cloppers) of which another portion of 1,000 acres was bought by Abram and Andries LeFevre. In a tax list dated 1765, we find the Deyo tract of 500 acres still assessed to Daniel's father Abraham, who resided in New Paltz. Daniel served as a teamster in the Revolutionary war, and it is related that on one occasion while returning ~~by~~ way of Kingston, Col. Hardenburgh ~~who was~~ an intimate friend of his father, sent him home on horseback, accompanied by a servant. Daniel's wife was Margaret LeFevre. The house in which he lived is still standing on the land of his grandson, Dr. Abm. Deyo. After Daniel's death his land was divided between his three sons; Nathaniel, who married Catharine Bevier, Abraham who married Ann Brodhead, and Jonathan who married Polly Hardenburgh. Nathaniel lived where his grandson Andrew L. F. now resides; Jonathan lived where the residence of his son, Dr. Abram, is at present.

THE WALDREN AND HOOD FAMILIES.

The first Hood in this town was named Lawrence. He married a daughter of John Waldren, and lived on his father-in law's farm at Middletown, now the property of the Jesse Hood's heirs. He died before his father-in-law, and left two sons, Isaac and John, both of whom lived in the same neighborhood. Isaac left two sons, Moses and John I. John left 2 sons, Jesse and Peter. The last named is the only one of that generation still living. He resides at Auburn, N. Y. The Waldren family was of Holland orign. At an old fashioned party in this village, some years ago, one of the most notable relics exhibited was a Bible, which had been brought to this country by the Waldren family. This Bible was printed at Amsterdam in 1696 and the first record therin was written in 1699.

THE ROSE FAMILY.

Nicholas Roosa was a freeholder of the town of New Paltz in 1728, but we do not find that name or any at all resembling it in documents for a long time subsequent, as residents of this town. Whether the names Roosa and Rose were one originally we do not know. All of the name of Rose in this vicinity, as far as we know, are descendants of James Rose, who was a corporal of artillery in the patriot army, and was killed at the attack and capture of Fort Montgomery by the British in the Revolutionary war. According to one report the last seen of him he was cheering on the men; according to another statement he was killed during the retreat. James Rose enlisted, we believe, from Shawangunk. His son Simon afterwards resided, some 70 years ago, in this town, in the house where Jacob Champlin now lives at Put Corners Afterwards Simon resided at Bontecou. In 1790 the family of James Rose was awarded 600 acres of bounty land in the town of Cincinnatus, Onondaga (now Cortland) Co But failing to take the necessary steps in order to make the title good within ten years of the grant, the land became the property of another. At that time there were no railroads and the country no farther west than Montgomery Co. was new and wild, so that the family of James Rose lost what would have been a valuable property at this time. About 30 years ago some of the family made inquiry into the matter, and Mr. Daniel Rose of this village, made a trip to Washington, to ascertain if there was any prospect of yet securing the land awarded to the family of his great grand father. He found the facts as above stated.

EDUCATION IN THE OLDEN TIMES AT NEW PALTZ.

The old stone school house, now owned and occupied by John Drake, and rebuilt two years ago, has had a long history as the seat of learning in this village. This building was built 1812 of the stone taken from the old stone church when it was torn down in 1772. 1772 About 60 years ago a classical school was held in the upper portion of the building, which in a few years led the way to the erection of of the New Paltz academy in 1833. About 75 years ago there was a log school house standing some 3 miles north of this village, where Freer Deyo resides. An educated Irish youth named Rice, was a famous school master in those days. He taught at Kettleborough and at Bontekoe. He was barely 20 years of age, and was noted for his severity to the pupils. He was bound that they should learn whether they wanted to or not. Doubtless his method of discipline was that of his native land, but it would hardly be tolerated at the present day. Some old people have a vivid recollection still of his rod and ferrule. There was no public money in those days, and in the times before the Revolution the opportunities for education were very poor.

OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS IN THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR.

Mr. B. Fernow, custodian of the department of manuscripts in the state library has just published for the state as complete a list of all revolutionary soldiers as can be obtained at this day, New York State archives vol. 1, sold by the state library for $3.

In the list appears the following names of people who were either residents of New Paltz or at least of the New Paltz stock:

Jonathan Hasbrouck, Col. 4th Regiment, Ulster county militia.

Abraham Hasbrouck, Lieut. Col., 1st or Northern Regiment, Ulster Co. militia, October 25, 1775; Col. same Regiment elected February 13; Commander February 20, 1776.

Elias Hasbrouck, Captain 3d Regiment New York Line, June 28, 1775; Captain of a company of Rangers in 1777.

Zachariah DuBois, Major Cornwell Regiment Orange Co militia.

In Col. John Cantine's Regiment; 3d Ulster Co. militia, 2d New Paltz Company served Jonathan LeFevre, John LeFevre, John A. LeFevre, Matthew LeFevre, Philip LeFevre, all privates.

Noah was Sergeant in Brodhead's Co., Hathorn's Regiment, Orange Co. militia.

Solomon and Thomas privates in same company and regiment.

Simon LeFevre was reappointed 1st Lieutenant, 7th Company, 1st (or Northern) Ulster Co. Regiment, May 28, 1778, Captain same Company, vice Gerardus Hardenburgh, resigned October 23, 1779.

(We are under obligations to Mr. Fernow for the above list, concerning which we must make further inquiry, as we can not place a considerable portion of the men mentioned, nor tell where they resided or who their descendants are.—Ed. Ind)

Things Past

New Paltz' First Schools

by Laurence M. Hauptman

The history of New Paltz' concern with education is long and rich in information. From 1689 to 1976, New Paltz has been an educational leader of the Mid-Hudson region. Eleven years after initial settlement, the Huguenots hired Jean Cottin to be their first teacher. Cottin was to teach New Paltz children, and, in return, the residents of the village agreed to provide him with his home, a right to cut wood for his needs and pasturage for two cows, a mare and a colt. Ah – the days of simplicity in teachers' contracts and uninstitutionalized education!

Contract

The schoolmaster held school in the church and instruction was in French. Moreover, much of the early education in New Paltz was religious in nature, under the guidance of the church with the ministers acting as overseers. The school was open to all children, boys and girls. Money for educational funding depended on voluntary contributions. Required school taxes were a futuristic nightmare.

Cottin's successor, Jean Tibenin's chief concern as schoolmaster was to maintain instruction in the French language. With the increasing numbers of residents who spoke Dutch or English in the eighteenth century, Tibenin's efforts were in vain. According to Dr. Edward L. Klotzberger's history – The Growth and Development of State Teachers College, New Paltz (1958) – Tibenin even went so far as to stipulate in his will that his copy of the Bible "should be sold and the money given to the poor if the French language should ever cease to be spoken in New Paltz." Despite Tibenin's hope of maintaining French as the official instructional language, the influx of non-French residents swelled and led to the hiring of Dutch teachers. Joseph Coddington, a Dutch-speaking teacher supplemented his meager salary by copying church minutes, preparing legal documents and writing orders for a construction crew building a new church. After the American Revolution, the English language became more widespread in New Paltz and its schools, although Dutch remained strong in Ulster County schools until well into the nineteenth century.

The first school building separate from the church was erected in 1812 on North Front street. In that year, New York State passed an "Act for the Establishment of Common Schools," carved out school districts and appointed a state superintendent of schools. Given incentive by this new law and by a 30 year school fund-raising campaign dating from 1782, the future of education appeared bright with the opening of the first school in 1812. By 1827, the curriculum had expanded beyond religious instruction, to English grammar, arithmetic and geography. In subsequent articles, the growth of education in New Paltz will be explored further.

HISTORY

HUGUENOT CHURCH

—AND—

SETTLEMENT AT NEW PALTZ.

BY REV. CHARLES H. STITT.

Kingston:
WM. H. ROMEYN, BOOK & JOB PRINTER.

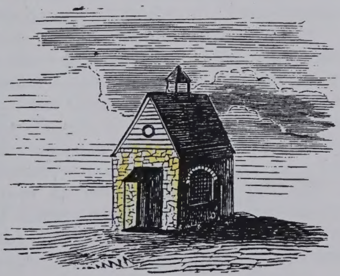
tarried with them at times as a kind of stated supply. We incline to the former as the most probable. The name of Bonrepos stands among the most illustrious of the Huguenot leaders in France. Imagination and inferences fondly picture this exiled preacher as a worthy descendant of "noble sires;" but, as yet, no record except our own, has been able to rescue his character and history from obscurity.

We come now to a period lying between 1700 and 1730 A. D., which was marked by the transition from the French language to the Dutch, and during which time, in consequence of such a transition, the Church did not enjoy the services of a settled ministry. But, although the fathers of the Colony were deprived of the ministrations of a preacher in their own native tongue, we are by no means to infer that they were negligent of the rites of the Church. The early baptismal records of the Reformed Dutch Church of Kingston abundantly testify, that many a tedious journey was performed thither by them, in order to avail themselves of the privileges of the Gospel and the Holy Sacraments. At a later period, when the Dutch language was coming into general use, we find from the records that the services of Dutch ministers from Kingston and Albany, were obtained for the purpose of preaching the Gospel and the performance of marriage and baptismal rites. Their growing regard for the progress of the Gospel among them, at this time, viz: during the change of languages, and when they were without a settled ministry, was evinced by an event of no small import in the religious history of this people.



It was the erection of a second Church edifice, which was completed and dedicated to Almighty God, December 29th, 1720. It was of small dimensions, built of stone, and finished with brick brought from Holland. Its form was square, each of the three sides having a large window, and the fourth a capacious door inclosed by a portico. In the centre of the steep and pointed roof was a little steeple, from which a horn was sounded for religious services.

A curious document appears in the minutes of this date written in French. It designates the number of places which each seat holder was to occupy, on the respective benches, and purports to be an article of agreement among the members of the congregation. It doubtless answered the same purpose as a deed in securing to each his right in the sittings. From the dedication of this second Church no permanent pastoral services were rendered until March 11th, 1731, when they were visited by Dominie Johannes Van Dreissen, who is recorded on this occasion to have ordained Elders and Deacons. He styles the Church "Our French Church." His ministry among them continued till May 11th, 1736, including a period of a little more than five years. It appears on the minutes of Consistory, that six members were received on confession in 1733; ten in 1734, and six in 1736—making a total of twenty-two received during his ministry at the Paltz. We find on the minutes his recorded certificate from the Presbytery of New Haven, given April 13th, 1727, which states that he was originally from Belgium, where he completed his education, and that he sustained a thorough examination before the Presbytery in the halls of Yale College. His first settlement, after his licensure and ordination, was at Livingston Manor (now Linlithgow,) and Rensalaerwick (now Kinderhook and Claverack.) As he was called at the instance of Robert Livingston, who had just built a Church at the Manor, he seems to have removed soon after his death, which occurred in 1728.? He was not regularly installed as minister at New Paltz, in consequence of his not having been ordained and licensed by the mother Church, which, up to this time, had been regarded as essential to a connection with the classes. He seems, however, notwithstanding this irregularity, to have spent most of his time at New Paltz, performing the duties of a Pastor from 1731 to 1735, when he received a call at Aquackanonck, where he remained till 1748. Dominie Van Driessen was a representative man. His was the first instance in the northern section of the Church, of irregularity in ordination, which afterward became the bone of contention between the two parties, the Coetus and the Conferentia, and which doubtless hastened the development of this schism. . Although he pursued this course in order to avoid the trouble and expense of going to Holland for ordination, the regular ministry denounced him and warned the Churches against him. We find a notice to this effect in the minutes of the Coetus of that day. We also learn from the minutes of the Reformed Dutch Church of Kingston, of 1731, that under the lead of Dominie Mancius, he was denounced as a schismatic, in connection with Johannes Hardenburgh—(father of J. R. Hardenburgh)—"the said Van Driessen having preached dangerous doctrines in a barn in Hurley, on the Sunday previous in New Paltz, and on September 21st in Marble" (Marbletown.) It was doubtless to meet that charge that the following action was taken and recorded in the minutes of New Paltz, twenty years afterward:

> "The Consistory of New Paltz, having examined the members of the Church admitted by J. Van Driessen, with regard to their belief in the doctrines of the Catechism and the 39 Articles, find that they adhere to these doctrines, and submit to the Church Government as they understand it." B. VROOMAN.
> August 23d, 1753.

From this it would appear that his heresy consisted not so much in his doctrine as in the want of regularity in his admission into the Reformed Dutch Church. Indeed, if success is to be regarded as any proof of ministerial ability and devotion to Christ, he was not without his testimony. Despite the opposition and obloquy which assailed him, his ministry was owned of God in the first considerable ingathering of souls into the Church at New Paltz.

Between the years 1736 and 1751, there seems to have been a pastoral interregnum, as we find no record of the ordination of the Consistory, or of the admission of members into the Church. From occasional entries, we gather that baptisms and marriages were performed by Rev. Theodorus Frelinghuysen, of Albany, and Rev. Isaac Chalker, Rev. Johannes H. Goetschius, and probably by Dominie Mancius, of Kingston. That there was, however, an organization of the Consistory kept up, we infer from the fact that on the 12th of December, 1741, the Consistory of New Paltz united with those of Rochester, Marbletown and Shawangunk, in calling the Rev. John Casparus Freyenmoet to be their minister, for the sum of £100 per annum; Rochester agreeing to give him £31 6s and a parsonage for one-third of his services; Marbletown £36 14s for another third, and New Paltz and Shawangunk £31 for the remaining third of his services. Young Freyenmoet was at this time preaching with acceptance in the Minisink country. He seems to have spent his free Sabbaths among the people of Rochester, and it must have been some time before the call was formally made, that they notified him of their intention. A notice of this movement seems to have leaked out among his people, which aroused the righteous indignation of the Minisinkers, and drew forth from them a letter, which is a curiosity in its way,—administering, as it does, the acid of christian rebuke and denunciation, tempered in the same breath with the oil of christian charity. This letter is dated December 6, 1741—just six days before the call was formally made out. It is as follows:—

MANICINCK, December 6, 1741.

To the Reverend Consistory of Rochester, Greeting:—We, your servants, having learned that you have had correspondence with our Pastor, and have seduced him so far as to send him a call, thinking that the large amount of salary promised him will induce him to leave us: The Lord, who thus far has caused your acts of supplanting to fail, will further direct them to a good end.

We find ourselves bound to obey the command of the Savior—"Do good to them that hate you." We, therefore, will deal you hereafter, as we have before—"doing you good." It is true you give us no thanks for his service among you. You are bold enough to say that he has eight free Sundays during the year, which is as true as the assertion of the Devil to Eve—"You will not surely die."

If you desire, then, to have our Minister four or six times during the year, we will grant your wish cheerfully, and leave it with our Pastor to settle with you as to the amount of his compensation. If this cannot prevent the execution of your unjust intention, and the Lord wishes to use you as a rod to chasten us, we shall console ourselves with his gracious words, Heb. 12: "Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and he rebukes every son whom he adopts." If it please the Lord to permit you to deprive us of our Pastor, then we hope that your consciences will not be seared so much as to take away also a part of our livelihood, amounting to £125 12s 6d.* Should this, however, be the case, then we shall not hesitate to give the matter into the hands of the worldly Judge. We expect your answer, and conclude our discourse with the wish that the grace of our Lord and the love of God the Father and the

WILLIAM COOLE.

We have now arrived at a period in the history of the Church, which introduces us to the name of a family, which, during the remaining half of the 18th century, was identified with her history and progress.

Johannes Henricus Goetschius was born in Liguria, Switzerland, and studied in Zurich, the birth-place and seat of the great reformer and compeer of Martin Luther, Ulrich Zuingle. In 1748 he was ordained in due form by the Coetus, under the alleged authority of the Classis of Amsterdam, and settled over the Church at Hackensack. He seems to have preached occasionally at the Paltz before 1750. In his visits to Ulster County, he was opposed and denounced by Dominie Mancius, of Kingston, as a trespasser, but was sustained and put forward by the Coetus party, of which he was a warm adherent. We infer from facts and traditions, that he was a man of no ordinary talents and devotion to Christ. As a scholar, his attainments were such as eminently qualified him to be a teacher of Theology. As a preacher, in intrepidity and earnestness, he was a thunderbolt. Faithfulness and indomitable perseverance gave him great success in his ministry, and made him a formidable opponent. It is said that while preaching on Long Island, in consequence of his Coetus proclivities, the doors of the Church being closed against him, he at once mounted the door-step, and preached a powerful sermon to a large and deeply sympathizing congregation. A majority of his Consistory at Hackensack, being of the Conferentia party. deliberated one Sabbath morning about closing the door of the pulpit against him. On being told of what was going on, by a friend, he buckled a sword on his thigh, saying, "I will do what I must for my rights;" and thus accoutred, he actually entered the Church and the pulpit.

As we find no record of a regular call and installation, it is to be inferred that he was not regularly settled at the Paltz. Indeed, we have documentary evidence that he was settled over Schraalenberg and Hackensack from 1748 to 1774, and that he taught Theology at the latter place. From the minutes of Consistory, however, it would appear that frequent services were given by him to the Church from April, 1751, till July, 1753, and from December, 1754, till September, 1758. During the whole of this period of seven years, the Church enjoyed a season of refreshment from the presence of the Lord. Eighty-seven members were received by him into the communion of the Church, of which twenty-two were received on confession at a single Communion season, April, 12th 1751. According to the letter of Rev. Coetus to the Classis of Kingston, dated 1752, Barent Vrooman, of Schoharie, received a call from New Paltz, and said call was sent to Amsterdam for approval. In their letter of next year, (1753,) it is said he was accordingly installed. The only minute of the event is thus meagerly recorded in the Church Book. August 23d 1753, "B. Vrooman appeared before Consistory and presented his credentials, which were examined and found in order." The Baptismal Registers in New Paltz and Shawangunk, prove that during his brief stay his labors were divided between the two congregations. He was called to Schenectady in 1754, and was settled over that Church the same year.

We come next to the ministry of Johannes Mauritius Goetschius, a younger brother of John H. Goetschius. He studied medicine in Europe, and came to America in order to practice it about 1744, when he at once, by the advice of his brother, John Henry, commenced the study of divinity with him. Early in the year 1758, he was ordained by the Coetus, and settled over the High and Low Dutch Church of Schoharie, preaching both in German and Dutch, being at the same time actively employed in practising medicine.

During the latter part of 1759, having been put forward by the influence and reputation of his brother, he preached at New Paltz and Shawangunk. Having preached to their acceptance, the two Churches united in giving him a call to labor among them. This call was dated January 18th, 1760, and was approved by the Coetus—B. Vrooman, President. On May 6th, and in August of the same year, he entered into the labors of his charge. The stipulations of the call are not without interest. We will note some of them:—

First—That he shall preach twice on Sabbath from Paas to October, alternately in each Church.

Second—That the morning service be from the Scriptures, and the afternoon service from the Catechism.

Third—That he shall preach on all the Feast Days.

Fourth—That he shall administer the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper twice annually in each Church, and preach a preparatory sermon.

Fifth—That he shall visit his families every year with an Elder.

Sixth—That each congregation shall pay him £40, good New York gold.

Seventh—That no Elder nor Deacon shall be ordained till ne had signed the call.

Eighth—That the Shawangunk Church shall furnish him house, barn, garden, out-buildings, spring and farm, and hat the Paltz Church shall provide himself and horse with odging, &c.

Dominie Goetschius here continued to practice medicine n addition to his pastoral duties; in consequence of which ne was called the "Doctor Dominie." His labors in this apacity must have been arduous, for his field of practice xtended from Bloomingdale to New Prospect—a scope of ome thirty miles. He was regarded as a skillful physician. On one occasion he is said to have been called to see a atient at Bloomingdale, named Jacob Lefever, who was earfully insane. Quick as thought the Dominie called for violin, and plying it with a master hand, (for he was a killful player,) he drew such sweet tones from the instrunent that the patient, at once soothed and charmed, leaped rom his bed, danced till the perspiration stood on his foreead, and striking his hand on his head, exclaimed, "I have een crazy." It is needless to add that a permanent cure as effected.

According to the terms of the call, his residence was at ne Shawangunk parsonage. Tradition says that he was rge and commanding in person, courteous and intelligent his intercourse with others, though somewhat obstinate nd set in his ways—a quality which might as easily prove be a virtue as a fault. He was evidently a man of reectable attainments and various knowledge; but, as might fairly inferred from the combination of the two profesons, he was a preacher of only moderate ability and limited success. He acquired a valuable property, but left no child to possess it. He continued in this field of labor until his death, which took place after a long and painful illness, on the 17th of March, 1771. His remains repose under the north side of the Reformed Dutch Church of Shawangunk.

The memorable schism of the Coetus and Conferentia had, by this time, reached its acme. As we have seen, the Huguenot Church did not escape the contagion. Under the pressure of such men as Van Driessen and the two Goetschiuses, who were ardent advocates of the Coetus, on the one hand, and Dominie Mancius and others of the Classes of Kingston, who as strongly adhered to the Conferentia, and who frequently visited them, on the other, parties on both sides were early formed in the Church, and internal strife and contention were the legitimate results;—a kind of strife which always seems paradoxical and contradictory to that peaceful Religion whose spirit is Love; and yet the very earnestness and virulence of religious dissentions prove its paramount preciousness, and how near it lies to the heart. These growing dissentions at length ripened into an open schism in 1767, when a Second Reformed Dutch Church of New Paltz was organized by the Rev. Isaac Rysdyck, of Poughkeepsie and Fishkill. The organization was effected at the house of Henricus Dubois. Five members of the Reformed Dutch Church of Kingston, whither they had taken their certificates, though actually residing at New Paltz, viz: Josiah Eltinge, Noah Eltinge, Petrus Van Wagenen, Jacob Duboys and Dirk Wynkoop, together with some members of the Reformed Dutch Church of New Paltz, were present at the meeting. They first set forth their reasons for building a separate Church, among which are— OLD CHURCH ? – CONFERE

CON

First—That Dominie Mauritius Goetschius has withdrawn himself from a due subordination to the Classes of Amsterdam.

Second—The Synodical Resolutions of 1763, which are drawn up at length in the minutes.

Third—The fact that they live too far from the Reformed Dutch Church of Kingston, to attend to religious service, or to have their children properly brought up in the doctrines of the truth.

These reasons having been approved by Dominie Rysdyck and his consistory, the organization was effected by the choice of Noah Eltinge for Elder and Petrus Van Wagenen for Deacon. On its first organization, the Church consisted of five members from Kingston, as above mentioned, and ten from the Church of New Paltz.

The weakness of the Conferentia, or Second Church, and the very large majority of the Coetus party which held the old Church by right, will readily be accounted for by the moulding influence and popularity of the elder Goetschius, to whom so many in the communion of the Church had looked up as their Spiritual Father. But such a result was due more than all to the Spirit which these Huguenots had carried with them from the father-land, and which had just fearlessly shown itself under the ministry of the persecuted Van Driessen. They felt that they must have the Gospel at any rate; that the mere question of "topical ordination" should not deprive them of that for which they had gone through a baptism of fire and blood to possess and enjoy. Huguenot persecution in Fr Beside this, although sound in the Reformed faith, they had none of those innate prejudices in favor of the alleged High Church authority of the Classis of Amsterdam, which their Dutch brethren had to battle against and overcome. They could see no more virtue in the ordaining touch of the fingers of a minister of Christ in Amsterdam, than in Zurich or Geneva, or in their own adopted home in America. The Church edifice erected by the Conferentia Party, was situated three miles south of the village, near the residence of Josiah Dubois, Esq. Owl Church

This organization, originating, as it did, out of dissention, and not out of the spiritual necessities of the people, declined and died in a few years with the spirit that had begotten it.

Their first minister was Rev. G. D. Cock. His ministry among them extended from 1768 to 1770. As we find no record of a call, and learn that he was settled over Rhinebeck and Camp, during this time,* we infer that he must have served them as a stated supply. In 1774, Rev. Ryneer Van Neste accepted a call from Shawangunk and the Second Church of New Paltz. He was ordained at Shawangunk about the 1st of December, 1774, by the Classis of Kingston. His salary was £100, of which the Second Church of New Paltz paid £40. Dominie Van Neste remained the pastor of the Second Church, until that Church was merged into the First Church, or the Coetus Church, of New Paltz, under the ministry of Rev. Stephen Goetschius, when he connected Montgomery with Shawangunk under one pastorate, and preached for them till 1785, when he removed to Queens County, Long Island. VAN NESTE

The erection of a new Church by the Conferentia party, as well as the contracted dimensions of the old stone building, which, notwithstanding the withdrawal of the Second Church party, was insufficient to accommodate all the worshippers, had the effect to stir them up to emulate their seceding brethren. Accordingly the congregation took the material of the old Church edifice and converted it into a village school house, which still remains, and erected a new stone building of more liberal dimensions on a site a few yards south of the present house of worship.

It was a substantial, well-proportioned stone building, with a hipped roof surmounted with a cupola, and a bell, which is still doing service in the village school house. The building was finished and dedicated to Almighty God, A. D. 1773.

Four years after the death of Rev. J. Mauritius Goetschius, and two years after the erection of the Church edifice, A. D. 1775, Rev. Stephen Goetschius (Coetus) accepted a call from the united Churches of New Paltz and New Hurley, and remained their pastor till 1796, when he removed to the Reformed Dutch Church of Marbletown. He was the son of John H. Goetschius, (now deceased,) by whom he had been recommended to that people to whom his earliest labors had been given and whom he greatly loved. In the early part of his ministry, he boarded at the house of Louis Dubois, whose daughter Elizabeth he afterwards married. He received his preparatory training with Solomon Frees Freleigh under Peter Wilson, at Hackensack. He received his Bachelor's degree at Princeton. He studied divinity, first under his father, at Hackensack, afterwards under Dr. Livingston, of New-York, Dr. Westerlo, at Albany, and Dr. Verbryck, at Tappan. His labors began with his call; but he was not installed until a year and a half afterwards, when Dr. Romeyn called a Synod extraordinary for that special purpose. The preaching of the young licentiate had the happy effect of healing the breach between the two congregations at the Paltz, and merging brethren, long separated by honest differences, into one communion, and restoring peace and unity to their well-beloved Zion. The stormy times of the Revolutionary period, which extended through a large portion of his ministry, and which brought distraction to the affairs of the Church and the Country, must account for the seeming want of spiritual progress and the small accessions to the Church during his pastorate. Tradition describes him as being small of stature and somewhat bent in form. He was a sound preacher, faithful in exposing error and sharp and fearless in his denunciation of sin. In labors he must have been abundant. Hear him in one of his sermons: "At the close of the war I perceived here were places where new congregations might be gathered. I did undertake—collected—and organized nine Churches. Being the only minister in the Dutch Church in Ulster County, my labors in solemnizing marriages, in visiting and performing parochial duties, were very severe, and ather more than I could endure; but the Lord helped me, s I have reason to believe."

His vacant Sabbaths were spent at Wawarsing, a valley vest of the mountains, about twenty miles from the Paltz. At that time the Indians were visiting the defenceless inhabitants with fire and slaughter. He speaks of preaching n a pulpit cut and disfigured by the tomahawks of the avages. The Church had been set on fire, but it went out of its own accord, and by the good Providence of God the building was saved. But all Wawarsing was burnt to the ground, save three houses. He speaks of an old man, an elder of the Church, on that occasion, who, not being able to keep up with the rest, was shot and scalped on the road.

It is worthy of remark that the Paltz settlement was exempt from these surrounding scenes of cruelty and blood. The Indians always respected the treaty by which they had received from the Huguenots a fair compensation for their land. Toward the latter part of his ministry at the Paltz, in order to meet the wants of the younger portion of his audience, he preached alternately in Dutch and English. As his congregation was nearly doubled when he preached in English, he used to vary his services, so as always to secure a respectable house. The Dutch being his mother-tongue, he found great difficulty at first in adopting the new language. But with help of Dictionaries and by dint of hard labor, he at last succeeded. His first sermon was from Romans 14:8—"For whether we live, we live unto the Lord," &c., which he is said to have repeated several times. After removing from Marbletown he settled at Saddle River, where he closed his ministry, and died full of years and honors. His farewell sermon to his last charge was from Eph. 6:24—"Grace be with all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity. Amen." He concludes with these words: "Farewell, farewell, friends and fellow Christians! From henceforth ye shall see me no more as your ordinary shepherd and teacher in the Sacred desk. Be of one mind; be of good cheer; live in peace, and the God of Peace will be with you.

Omden will der vrieden myn
And der broderen, die binnen zyn;
Wensche ik in vrede in alle pocken,
Om dat Godz temple zeer ryn,
Staat binnen were muren niet klyn
Zalik steeds au voors pocdzocken." [Ps. 122.]

After a vacancy of three years, the Rev. John H. Meyers was called and settled over the Churches of Paltz and New Hurley, March 23d, 1799. He likewise preached in Dutch and English alternately, giving the whole service of every alternate Sabbath to each Church. This was the plan adopted by his successors until the union ceased. Like his predecessor, he lived at the Paltz. He was said to be an accomplished scholar, speaking with great fluency and elegance, both the English and Dutch. The state of the records during his brief ministry, gives good evidence of the fact. He was a gifted and popular preacher, and seemed to be possessed of a peculiar unction in the delivery of his sermons. His ministry closed at the Paltz in 1803, when he accepted a call from the Reformed Dutch Church at Schenectady, where he soon after died.

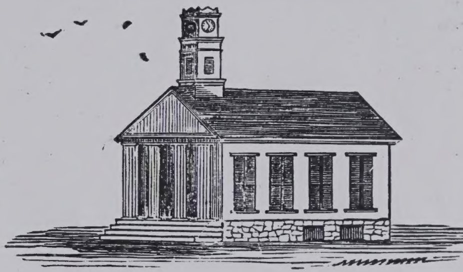
A. D. 1808, Rev. Peter Ditmas Freligh became pastor of New Paltz and New Hurley. His uncle, Rev. Moses Freligh, was settled about the same time in Montgomery, Orange county. He was married to Nelly Bogert, of New Jersey, before his settlement at the Paltz. He lived on a farm near the Paltz, and preached alternately in Dutch and English. He was said to be a good preacher. His sermons were always interesting, and delivered with great force and distinctness of utterance. But while they were sound, perspicuous and clear, they seemed to be wanting in spiritual point and pungency, and consequently failed to effect any marked reformation in the morals or manners of the people. He was faithful in catechizing the youth, and was especially popular with the older portion of the congregation, because of his fluency in the Dutch. He was a man of medium height, pleasant countenance, and great suavity of manner. His ministry lasted six years. He removed in 1814 to the Second Church at Aquackanonck, New Jersey, where he accepted a call and closed his earthly labors.

After a vacancy of two years, a call from the united Churches of New Paltz and New Hurley was made on the Rev. William R. Bogardus, who accepted it, and was settled over them A. D. Feb. 18th, 1817. He remained their pastor till 1831, when he removed to assume the pastoral charge of the R. D. Church of Aquackanonck, N. J. He retired from that charge in 1857, and removed to Paterson, where he remained, without charge, until the death of his wife Charlotte Wiltse, to whom he was married before his settlement at the Paltz. He still lives, full of years and honors, with his son-in-law, Rev. J. Romeyn Berry, at Kinderhook. Although we have come down to a period still fresh in the recollection of the living, there are some distinctive points in this pastorate which demand more than a passing notice. Not the least prominent is the large and constant ingathering into the communion of the Church, which indicates a succession of pleasant seasons of spiritual refreshment. During the fourteen years of his ministry, two hundred and seventy eight were received by confession and certificate. Untiring pastoral labor—faithfulness in the catechetical instruction of the youth, and sound, earnest, and pointed preaching, were the means under God of producing such a result. One secret of success in his preaching seems to have been a remarkable power of adaptation in his sermons to the spiritual wants of his flock. Another was a fearlessness and faithfulness in reproving sin. Never shall the writer forget the earnest words, the youthful fire, and the clear, ringing, sonorous tones of the old man eloquent, as he stood before his former beloved flock at the Paltz and preached Christ to them, perhaps for the last time.*



During his ministry, New Hurley was disconnected from the Paltz, and the latter received his exclusive services. His successor at the Paltz was the Rev. Douw Van Olinda, who commenced his ministry Jan. 1, 1832. He resigned his call on the 2d of April, 1844, and removed to the Reformed Dutch Church of Fonda, where he has since deceased. He was of large stature and commanding appearance. As a preacher he was sound, edifying and instructive—addressing himself rather to the understanding, than the feelings. His distinguishing trait was great executive ability. It was under his direction that the New Paltz Academy was erected and put into successful operation. It was also by his well-timed efforts that the second stone Church was 1839 taken down and a new brick edifice erected near its site; the basement walls of which were built from the material of the old Church.

This spacious house of worship, now standing, was completed and dedicated on the 17th of December, 1839. The next year after his dismissal, the Rev. John C. Vandervoort was called and entered on his labors in January, 1845. After rendering a little more than three years of faithful service in the cause of his Master, he removed, April 15th, 1848, to the Reformed Dutch Church of West Ghent, where, after a tedious and painful sickness, he closed his earthly ministry. He was a good man, full of the Holy Ghost, and of faith. His earnestness for the salvation of souls was manifested in his preaching and indefatigable pastoral labors. His record is on high.

He was succeeded by the present pastor, Rev. C. H. Stitt, who was ordained and installed in this, the first field of his labors, on the 20th of December, 1848. Modesty, sincere and unaffected, leaves to another pen the history of the present pastorate, when its labors shall have ceased and the minister and his beloved flock shall be numbered among the past.

It is but just to add, that although a large portion of the congregations of New Hurley, New Paltz Landing, Guilford, Rosendale and Dashville, have gone out from the mother Church of New Paltz, within the last forty years, the commodious edifice is still too strait to accommodate all that desire to hear the Gospel.

We have alluded to the marked prominence of the Religious idea connected with the first settlement of this remarkable people. We have imperfectly noted its progress and development through the different pastorates down to the present. There is one event which has taken place in this —the great Religious awakening of 1858,* which claims for itself a record, (not on account of its connection with the present, but the past,) as an index of the spiritual outgrowth of the handful of precious seed that was rescued from the fires of persecution, and planted in tearful faith and hope in this obscure wilderness home, the top-most boughs of which have indeed begun "to shake like Lebanon."

We have read in Classic Geography of that remarkable river whose waters lose themselves in the sands, and after running for miles beneath the surface, break out in mighty volume, growing deeper and wider in its flow, till it debouches into the ocean. May we not trace the widening, deepening current of Religious life and corresponding temporal prosperity, of this remarkable people, up to the simple ancestral faith that was tried in the fire and baptized in blood, and that earnest wrestling in prayer that took fire from God's wondrous love and deliverances, and ascended from the settler's cabin and the log church in the wilderness for their posterity?

They were not lost in the obscurity of their wilderness home. Centuries have not buried, but developed them. Who can doubt, but that those prayers have been answered in our own time, in the experience of their children, by Him who is never sought in vain, and who has promised—"I will be a God to thee, and thy seed after thee."

"The institution of slavery came into the Paltz Patent with Louis DuBois and Christian Deyo. It came into the settlement along Hudson's River with Valentine Perkins, Peleg Ransom & Johannis Preslar.

"There is a tradition that the earliest ferry was propelled by slave labor. Up on top of the knoll directly south of the Cashdollar hotel is their reputed burying ground.

Tax roll of 1798 listed slave owners as follows:

Josaphat Hasbrouck	2 males	1 female
Zacharias Hasbrouck	2
Titus Ketcham	1
Elisha Lester who was inherited by his wife Mercy from her father Capt. Peleg Ransom		1 named Lucy
Hannah Perkins wid. of Ebenezer, Sr.		1 named Judy

In the Paltz, the slaves attended the Huguenot Church with their owners. The Church book contains records of their baptisms, marriages, and confirmations. Their descendants go to the same church today.

The census of 1845 reported only 15 negroes in the Town of Lloyd. Their families diminished and died out.

Aunt Judy Jackson was the last of the local slaves

SOJOURNER TRUTH

History will probably record Sojourner Truth as the most widely known resident New Paltz ever had. She was born about 1797 as a slave to Charles Hardenbergh, so she was first called Hardenbergh's Belle. Her teens and early adult years were spent as slave to John Dumond of New Paltz. Most of her 13 children had died young or been sold. But New York law changed to provide for gradual emancipation of all slaves by 1827. When, in violation of this law, Belle's youngest son Peter was sent south by Mrs. Dumond, Belle ran away and took refuge with a Quaker family VanWagenen in Wagondale, about 9 miles north of New Paltz village. Here she "first met Jesus."

Her certainty that God would answer her prayers inspired her to go to the "grand jury" held at the time in the cupola of the Kingston Court House. She succeeded in regaining her son.

The rest of her life was spent as a travelling lecturer for Christ, abolition, women's rights, civil rights, eventually for freedmen's rights and homesteading. She supported herself by the sale of her picture and of a book, The Story of Isabella, by VanWagenen. (If you ever see a copy of that book, treat it like diamonds.)

hence did not go to Jos. Gold. school.

She remained illiterate. She spoke only Dutch until she was 23, she never travelled south of Washington, D.C. and almost all her associates were white, though a snappy debate with Frederick Douglass is recorded.

Accounts also remain of her meetings with Abraham Lincoln, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and William Lloyd Garrison.

She died in Battle Creek, Mich. in 1886.

homestead of his grandfather, on lot 29. He married for his second wife Hester Darling, and they now live near Reynoldsville. Lavina J. married Daniel Goldsmith, and had three children, and live in the town. Other sons and daughters of William Spaulding married, and live in other parts.

One of the most prominent men among the early pioneers of Schuyler County was Cornelius Humphrey. He was born in 1735, and was in the prime of manhood at the time of the breaking out of the Revolutionary war. He was a man who was possessed of a good education, and also became a ready speaker and quite distinguished in public life. He was elected to the Second Provincial Congress of New York in 1775, and served afterwards as colonel, under Washington. He was member of Assembly from 1779 to 1785, inclusive; also State senator three years, commencing with 1787, and was again member of Assembly from Dutchess County, in 1800 and 1801. On the first organization of the Board of Regents, in 1784, he was a member. He sold his property in Dutchess County, taking its value, $30,000, in Continental money. He waited long years for its redemption, and, finally, seeing the earnings of his life lost, he abandoned all hope, and sought a home for himself in the western wilderness. He came to this town in 1802, and purchased the State's Hundred, being the southeast corner of lot 58, one mile east of Mecklenburg, where he lived and died. Soon after the organization of Seneca County, in 1804, he was appointed county judge, and held the office for six years, and represented Seneca County, in the Legislature, during the time, in the year 1806-7. He was instrumental in founding the "Society of Friends" in Hector and Ulysses, though he was a Presbyterian. His daughter married Charles Carman, a Quaker. He died in 1812, aged seventy-seven years, with faculties unimpaired, as he was in the Legislature when seventy-two years old, and his term as county judge did not expire until he was seventy-five. A portion of the apple-trees which he planted is the only vestige remaining of the place on which he first located.

William Carman, the oldest son of Charles Carman, and grandson of Cornelius Humphrey, in the year 1807, visited his grandfather, and was so pleased with the country that he concluded to purchase the south half of lot 58, excepting the State's Hundred. He was the first of the Society of Friends who settled in Hector. Charles Carman, his father, in 1810, with his wife and younger children,—Elizabeth, Phila, Amy, and Morris,—came in with three teams and a horse and carriage, and were three days on the road, coming by the way of the Auburn and Geneva Turnpike. William sold his father's 110 acres, and soon after bought the half of an adjoining lot, building nearly on the site of the present school-house of District No. 3. Thomas Carman's present residence stands near where Charles Carman built. Cornelius Carman purchased the north half of lot No. 58, and his brother Richard settled on the same lot. Caleb Carman and his family came in 1811, and settled in what is now Perry City. The line between William and Charles passed a few feet east of the present residence of Thomas Carman, and the noble shade-trees in his yard sprang up in what was then the line fence.

William Carman's sons are Mordecai, Thomas, and Richard. His daughters are the wives of Elnathan and Parken Wixom. Cornelius Carman settled on the farm on the north half of lot 58, where Elnathan Wixom now lives, and who came into the town in 1828.

Richard Carman bought the south half of the same lot, where Mordecai Carman now lives, and was killed three years afterwards by a tree falling upon him, killing him instantly.

Joshua and Jesse Makeel came in the eastern part of the town, near Searsburg, about 1813. Each bought a military lot,—Nos. 15 and 16.

Joshua had four sons. Aaron and William lived in the town. Jesse had five sons. Isaac and Abram V. reside here. A. V. Makeel is living at North Hector, and has represented his county as member of Assembly.

James Stillwell, in 1801, came from Ulster County, and settled on the Corners, and on the road that has been known as Stillwell Street. Isaac Stillwell came in 1807, on the farm where Stephen and Morgan Stillwell now live. He removed to Caroline, Tompkins Co., in 1814, and died there at eighty-two years of age. Many of the families of the Stillwells are living in the town.

Richard Sutfin, about 1800, came from the State of New Jersey, and rented land first at Peach Orchard. In 1816-17, bought the farm where Peter O. Sutfin, his grandson, lives.

Robert Curry came from Lodi, Seneca Co., in 1799, where he had lived five years. He settled on lot No. 2, where Mr. Wardner lives. He drove his cattle from there on the Indian trail, and sent his wife up in a scow. At the time he came, John Livingston, Benjamin Gilmour, and James Gilmour, father of David, were living here, Benjamin living in a log hut where F. F. Chandler's house now stands. Garrett Clawson settled on the north town line and raised a large family of children, who are living mostly in Lodi. Many of the family are buried on the old homestead.

Benjamin Coddington was a soldier of the Revolution. In 1803 he came to this State from New Jersey, having emigrated from England, and settled in the northeast part of this town, on land now owned by the heirs of Le Roy Baker. *His son, John M. Coddington, was born in Fishing Creek, Northumberland Co., Pa., in 1787; came here with his father; remained with him until June, 1806, when he started for West Bloomfield, Ontario Co., intending to work by the month for Jasper Sears, leaving here with his wardrobe and provisions in his knapsack, and only three sixpenny pieces in his pocket for the expenses of the entire journey.

The first night he arrived at Seneca River, paid a ferryman a sixpence for carrying him across, and remained overnight with him, sleeping up-stairs on the floor. He resumed his journey next morning, and passed through Geneva, then a small hamlet, and reaching the State road, followed it to Canandaigua. There he bought ~~a lunch~~, consisting of gingerbread and a glass of beer, which cost him another sixpence, and arrived at his destination the second night. He worked for Mr. Sears until the latter part of September, when he returned home, and remained until 1810.

Bought 50 A, 1807, @$4 A. Set. here, m. Sally Owen 2/22/1810, & moved into log cabin w/ no door, window; b. house 1826.

* From Tomp. Co., Robt. C. had a son John M. who studied for the ministry but this is not he.

William Carman's sons are Abraham, Thomas, and William. His daughters are the wives of [illegible] and [illegible] Rivers. Cornelius Carman resided on the [illegible] north half of lot [illegible], where Abraham [illegible] now lives, and who came into the town in 1828.

Hubbard Carman bought the south half of the same lot, where Marshall Carman now lives, and was killed there some years afterwards by a tree falling upon him, killing him instantly.

[illegible] and Anne [illegible] came to the eastern part of the town, near Smithboro, about 1815, [illegible] respectively 14 and 18.

[illegible] had four sons: — [illegible]

James Holbrook, in 1801, came from [illegible] County, and [illegible] on the Corners, and on the land that has been known as Holbrook Corners. Isaac Holbrook came in 1807, to the farm where Stephen and Morgan Holbrook now live. He removed to Caroline, Tompkins Co., in 1834, and died there at eighty-two years of age. Many of the families of the Holbrooks are living in the town.

[illegible]

One of the most prominent men among the early pioneers of Tioga County was [illegible]. He was born in [illegible], and was in the [illegible] of the Revolutionary war. He was a man who was possessed of a good education, and [illegible] public life. He was elected to the [illegible] of New York in [illegible], and served afterwards [illegible] member of Assembly [illegible]

[illegible]

William Carman, the eldest son of Cornelius Carman, and [illegible] contracted for fifty acres of land in 1807, paying $4 per acre. He was married Feb. 22, 1810, to Sally Owen, and moved into a little log cabin without either door, window, or upper floor, until 1826, when he built the house he now occupies.

He, with his boys, cleared up the farm of one hundred and seventy-five acres, which was heavily timbered with pine, oak, and maple. He owned at one time all but sixty acres of land between his house and Mecklenburg,—a distance of two miles. He took his chances in four different drafts in the war of 1812, and escaped each time. In the first years of his residence here, they went to mill at Goodwin's Point, on the west shore of Cayuga Lake. His first wife died in 1864, at the age of seventy-five years, they having lived together fifty-four years. In 1871, he was married to Elizabeth, widow of Calvin Jewel, with whom he still lives. He has had a family of ten children,—six boys and four girls; three sons and three daughters are still living. His first vote for President was cast for James Madison, and he has voted at every presidential election since, and has filled positions in town with honor to himself.

In 1840, in company with the Darlings, he went to Potter Co., Pa., deer-hunting, and stayed seven days, and brought home thirteen deer. In 1860 he made his last deer-hunt, at the age of seventy-three years. He still keeps the old rifle with which he has killed many a deer, and has repeatedly killed two deer at one shot. He is still living, in his ninety-second year. (1879)

General William Himrod came in the town in 1802, from Easton, Pa., and bought the south half of lot No. 55, afterwards known as "Himrod's Settlement." He raised a regiment of soldiers for the war of 1812, and died in 1813. His descendants are living in the town. Joel Reynolds bought the north half of lot No. 55. Timothy Scoville came from Chenango County in 1805, and settled first where J. B. Kinan now lives. He afterwards moved to Hector Hill, and bought 26 acres. His daughter, Olive, married Augustus Ely. His wife, Chloe, was one of the constituent members of the Presbyterian Church in Peach Orchard.

Augustus Ely bought 50 acres. The farm is now owned by his son, William B. Ely, and the heirs of Sheldon Barrett, who came into the town about 1828, from Connecticut. He was born in 1780; came to this town when forty-four years of age; remained a bachelor until fifty years old, and married a sister of Major Roscoe, of Starkey. He was a prominent member of the Presbyterian Church; one of the foremost in all benevolent works. They had three children,—Joseph Barret, the oldest, living on the in 1846, eighty-four years of age. Chloe, his wife, died in 1849, eighty-seven years old. John Waldron died in Burdett, aged ninety years: probably the Deacon Waldron of whom Mr. Wickham bought the oxen, about 1792, as noticed in his life.

These records are found in the Presbyterian Church book, in possession of William B. Ely.

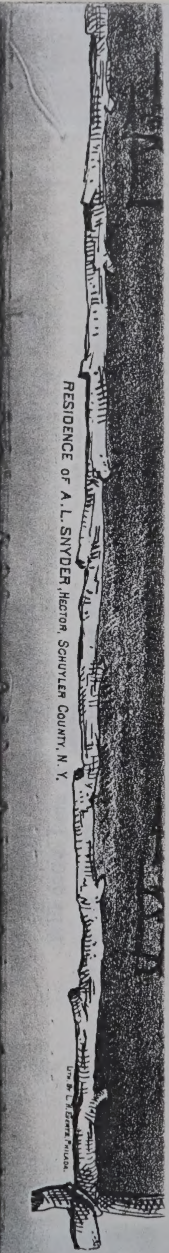
John Kinan emigrated from New Jersey in 1809, located lot No. 2, and returned home. The following spring he came in with his wife and three children. Thomas Kinan and his wife came the same year. Daniel P. Budd, with a family (wife, four boys, and two girls), also came in 1810, and located on lot No. 2. Representatives of these families still reside in this town. Joseph Potter, in 1814, settled on the farm where Hon. A. V. Makell now lives. They lived at Aunt Betsey Budd's until their log house was built. None of this family are living here at this time. Mr. Potter was an elder in the Presbyterian Church. Sullivan D. Hubble, in 1807, settled on lot 64, where Charles Rathbone now lives, and the orchard now on the farm was set out by him in 1808. John Proper came from Ulster County in 1810; located on lot 28, in the north part of the town; bought 128 acres, for $6 per acre. Five of his sons are living in town. Albert E. Proper is living on the homestead. Peter Woodward was captain in the Revolutionary army, and drew for his services lot No. 96. He died in New York, and Mrs. Woodward and four children came to this town in 1817; Richard, the oldest son, remaining in New York to study law. He, however, came on about two years later, and lived and died on the homestead. Harriet H., a daughter, married Dr. Edmund Brown, who came from Cortland County in 1821, settled in Burdett, and followed his profession six or seven years, and removed to Buffalo, where he practiced nine years, and carried on a wholesale and retail drug business; after which he returned, and spent the remainder of his days, and died Feb. 18, 1874, aged seventy-four years; having been an elder in Park Church, Buffalo, and the church in Burdett for the period of thirty-six years. Mrs. Dr. Brown is living at Burdett. Her father was the Rev. Amos. Fowler, a Presbyterian minister, who was pastor forty-seven years over a congregation in Guilford, Conn.

William Martin settled in what is now Ithaca, and in 1812 removed to this town with his wife and three children, where Adam Snyder lives. June 4, bought 100 acres on lot No. 79. Archer Martin, a son, lives on part of the farm.

Thomas and David Sears came into what is known as Searsbury, after 1805. Their descendants are still living here.

Christopher Smith came from Morris Co., N. J., and settled in the north part of the town. He had five sons. John came before his father, and took up land across the road from one Skinner, and married his daughter.

Joseph Jewell moved to Durham, Greene Co., N. Y., from Salisbury, Conn., and from that place to Hector, in 1813, in company with Zerah Carter and Abiel Gardner.



RESIDENCE OF A. L. SNYDER, HECTOR, SCHUYLER COUNTY, N. Y.

---

* He chopped an acre of land for one of the neighbors, receiving for his services three fox-skins, and at Colonel Camp's store, in Trumansburg, sold them for one dollar apiece, taking in exchange three yards of cambric, at one dollar per yard, and had a shirt made of it by his aunt. When finished, he asked her price of making; she replied, "The usual price is the same as a yard of the cloth." He had just one silver dollar, and he was left penniless.

CHAPTER XVI.

THE WAR OF THE REVOLUTION.

LIST OF THE SIGNERS OF THE ARTICLES OF ASSOCIATION. 1775

THE county of Ulster was destined to play an important part in the war of the American Revolution. From their isolated position, the people of Ulster took but little active part in the agitations which preceded the great contest. But they were not altogether idle spectators of the important movements which so nearly concerned their dearest rights. The Dutch had always been familiar in the Fatherland with the great principle of "no taxation without consent," and the memory of what they considered the English usurpation of 1664 still slumbered in their bosoms. It is not surprising, therefore, that upon the reception of the news of the uprising in New England of the early spring of the year 1775 and of the battle of Lexington, the people of Ulster took instant and efficient action. During the war Ulster County furnished three regiments for the Continental army. The important events occurring upon her own soil will be recounted in this and the following chapters.

I.—ULSTER COUNTY ROLL OF HONOR.

THE NAMES OF THE SIGNERS OF THE ARTICLES OF ASSOCIATION.

Among the first prominent events in the history of Ulster during the Revolution was the signing of the Articles of Association adopted by the citizens of the city of New York who were favorable to the cause of liberty. On Saturday, the 29th day of April, 1775, ten days after the battle of Lexington, "The Freemen, Freeholders, and Inhabitants of the City and County of New York" adopted the following bold and manly article of general association, which was transmitted to all the counties in the State for subscribers. When it reached Ulster many openly declared it treason, while others refused to take either side, or absented themselves that the Whigs could have no opportunity to importune them; yet by far the greater number immediately re-echoed the sentiments of their brethren in the rights of man, and wrote their names to the Articles of Association.

CHAPTER XVII.

I.—THE ADOPTION OF THE FIRST CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE, AND THE INAUGURATION OF THE STATE GOVERNMENT.

THE eventful year of 1777 stands prominent in the annals of Ulster County. It was distinguished by two important events: the meeting of the "Convention of the Representatives of the State of New York," at Kingston, the adoption and promulgation of the first State constitution in the summer, and the sacking and burning of Kingston by the British in the autumn of that year. 1777

The Revolutionary authority in the province of New York was exercised by a provincial convention, which assembled at the Exchange in the city of New York on the 20th of April, 1775. The delegates from Ulster County in this convention were George Clinton, Charles De Witt, and Levi Pawling.

The first Provincial Congress met at New York on the 23d day of May, 1775. The second Provincial Congress met at New York on the 14th day of November, 1775. The third met at New York on the 14th day of May, 1776. The fourth Provincial Congress met at White Plains, in Westchester County, on the 9th day of July, 1776. At this meeting the Declaration of Independence was at once adopted. On the 10th day of July, 1776, the style of the house was changed to that of the "Convention of the Representatives of the State of New York." This convention adjourned to Fishkill, Aug. 29, 1776, and on the 19th day of February, 1777, it first met at Kingston, Ulster Co. The names of the members of these several conventions appear elsewhere in these pages.

The adoption of the constitution by the convention is so well described in the address of Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, delivered at the Kingston Centennial in 1877, that we copy so much of his address as relates to that event entire, as follows:

EXTRACTS FROM MR. DEPEW'S ADDRESS.

In 1683 the home government, unable longer to resist, called together an assembly elected by the people. It was the dawn of representative government in New York. The first assembly of our ancestors immediately asserted and enacted into laws the fundamental principles of civil liberty. They passed a law for a triennial assembly; they declared all power to rest in the Governor, council, and people met as 6 weeks. Very few entered for a year, it being difficult to find men willing to engage for beyond six months. All who were friendly to the cause, were willing to give their fair proportion of service, but the idea prevailing was that the whole population should thus in turn should subordinate themselves to the common interest. The frequent changes made in the provisions of the army under this system, was a source of immense difficulties, and greatly tried the ability to stand firm, and the patience, of the Commander and the other officers.

In the latter years of the war a new system was adopted of making enlistments "for three years or during the war"; and inducements were held out to prevail on the people to enter the army under this arrangement. The effect of this change was most beneficial.

Among the old papers preserved in New Paltz there is a payroll dated Sept. 19, 1778 and signed by 23 men acknowledging that they had "received of Captain Abraham Deyo, our respective wages and billeting money for one month's term of duty at the Frontiers. Among the 23 signatures were those of Isaac DuBois, and Zachariah Hasbrouck, both of whom lived on Huguenot Street. The name of Abraham Ean of Bontecou also appears on the list. There were many other New Paltz men who served in the 3rd Ulster County Regiment as well as the 4th Ulster Regiment. A number of them received land bounty rights.

The battle of Lexington was fought on the 19th of April 1775. Ten days later the Articles of Association were adopted by the "Freemen, Freeholders and Inhabitants of the City and County of New York". Copies of the document were sent to all parts of the province of New York for signers. In New Paltz, Nathaniel DuBois was named Chairman, Joseph Coddington, Committee Clerk, at the community meeting to hear the Articles read. After the reading there was much excitement and enthusiasm of a patriotic nature and 218 signatures were applied in this town.

The Articles of Association read as follows: "Persuaded that the salvation of the rights and liberties of America depends, under God, on the firm union of its inhabitants in a vigorous prosecution of the measures necessary for its safety, and convinced of the necessity of preventing the anarchy and confusion which attended a dissolution of the powers of government, we, the Freemen, Freeholders and Inhabitants, being greatly alarmed at the avowed design of the ministry to raise revenue in America, and shocked by the bloody scene now acting in the Massachusetts Bay, do, in the most solemn manner, resolve never to become slaves; and do associate under the ties of religion, honor, and love to our country to adopt and endeavor to carry into execution, whatever measures may be recommended by the Continental Congress, or resolved upon by our Provincial Convention, for the purpose of preserving our Constitution, and opposing the execution of the several arbitrary and oppresive Acts of the British Parliament, until a reconciliation between Great Britain and America on Constitutional Principles (which we most ardently desire) can be obtained; and that we will in all things follow the advice of our General Committee, respecting the purpose aforesaid, the preservation of peace and good order, and the safety of individuals and private property."

Ulster Co had many slaves by 1790.

The names of the signators in New Paltz are: Abraham Deyo, Abraham Deyo Jr., Simon Deyo, Simon Deyo Jr., Christophel Deyo, Philip Deyo, Jonathan Deyo, Daniel Deyo, Henry Deyo, Jr., John B. 1791
ferry

On January 20, 1791, twenty two of the townspeople contributed in varying amounts from 3 shillings to 2 Pounds each to construct a "skow" to be made of yellow pitchpine wood, except the ribs to be of good whitewood oak. The length of the "skow" to be 28 feet and the breadth 11½ feet, also to buy a good rope to hawl the said "skow" across the Wallkill.

When the skow was completed the right to operate it as a ferry was put up at auction for the highest bidder, to have the right to collect of all those who desired to cross except those who already had paid for the "use of the "skow".

"Every subscriber to the building fund of the skow is to have full liberty to ferry across with said skow, also those that are coming to and from Devine Service in the Town of New Paltz are to have free use of the ferry."

The paper regarding the use of the skow further states: "Said ferry man is to provide a good lock that whensoever the kill rises so high that said skow cannot be used with the rope he may lock said skow in the night and every subscriber, and those who have the liberty to use it, will be obliged to fetch the kee at his home and return again as soon as possible.

Cornelius DuBois was of Poughwaugtenonk during the Revolution. He served as Quartermaster in the 4th Regiment of Militia under his brother-in-law Col. Jonathan Hasbrouck. He inherited from his father 3000 acres of land in the vicinity of the present Ulster Co. Infirmary. He was born 6-6-1750 and died 3-17-1816. His wife was Getrude Bruyn of Shawangunk. His cousin Philip DuBois kept an Inn at Libertyvile; Philip's brother Solomon served in the Revolutionary War. He had his knee injured while in the army which resulted in lameness. His knee would clink as he walked for which reason he was often called "Clinker".

Ferry

Hendricus DuBois, another son of Solomon was also of Poughwargnonk now Libertyville, at that time. Noah Elting who was born in New Paltz in 1763 established the ferry to Poughkeepsie which

at first was propelled by oars and sails, later by horsepower, finally by steam.

Roelif J. Elting was a merchant of New Paltz during the latter part of the century. He and his family occupied the Bevier-Elting homestead during the Revolutionary War period. He signed the Articles of Association in 1775.

Abraham Bevier born in 1713 and died in 1771 was a judge of the town of New Paltz. He lived just south of Butterville.

Peter LeFevre b. 1759, d. 1830 was a prominent farmer in New Paltz during this period. He was the great-great grandfather of Ralph LeFevre the present publisher of the New Paltz Independent. (1965).

"A SHORT HISTORY OF NEW PALTZ"

The Nineteenth Century

George Washington had died on December 14, 1799. The year 1800 dawned with John Adams's term as President with but a year to run. Thomas Jefferson's campaign for Presidency of the United States would be carried on during the new year to culminate in his inauguration on March 4, 1801. In the 1800 Election Jefferson and Aaron Burr received equal Electoral College votes so the House of Representatives, with Hamilton's help, elected Jefferson, the first President to be inaugurated in Washington. The most memorable events during his two administrations were the Louisiana Purchase in 1803, and the Lewis and Clarke Expedition to the far west. The country was growing and expanding.

New Paltz from 1750 to 1800, is the record of a school-master Joseph Coddington, who was undoubtedly the ancestor of the Coddington family in Ulster Co. his name appears on the church book in 1758. when he and his wife had a child Sarah baptized.

for a loan of $100 for 2 months. As his eyesight was bad, he asked to borrower to write the note. But the borrower substitute the word death for date, and the note read "2 months after death I promise to pay to ..". Abe did not discover the change until 2 months later when he requested payment and then was informed that the note was not due.

Dec. 22, 1965.

Dr. Coddington

Fred Coddington graduated from New Paltz Academy in 1892. He was treasurer of his class. He studied to be a doctor and settled in New Paltz in 1903.

At first he did not have much business so he walked around the various streets of the Village carrying his medical bag. The people said, "He must be busy", so it was not long before he had all the business he could handle. He would pull a tooth or remove your appendix in your home on the kitchen table.

During the Flu epidemic of 1918, he had five horses and two drivers. Doc slept between house calls in his wagon. He would give you an examination, a bottle of medicine and an ear full of good advice for a dollar.

When our first boy was born, he gave pre and post care, including delivery for $30. When the second boy came along (during the depression) his fees for all services were reduced to $25.00.

He was a firm believer that all pills are poison—the human body worked to expel the poison.

He had no use for the Huguenots. It seems when he first came to town, they induced him to run for Supervisor on the Republican Ticket, then double crossed him by voting for their kinfolk, Josiah J. Hasbrouck.

He did not try to make every case a project but endeavored to obtain a good result with the least possible expenditure, and gave the good Lord and nature due credit.

He suffered with diabetes.

During the first World War in 1917, the army wanted Doc but he felt his services were more needed in New Paltz. They drafted him and sent a pair of doctors to examine him. He had arranged with someone to tip him off when they would arrive. So he purchased a pound of chocolate cream drops which he ate before the physical. After the examination and they pronounced him a fine specimen, he said, "I have an incurable disease," "What is that?" "Sugar Diabetes". A test was made—Doc stayed in New Paltz.

It has been disgusting to observe the American Medical Assoc. spend millions of dollars in opposing and lobbying in Washington trying to place their selfish interests above the good of the common people. They were wrong on Social Security, which they have only reluctantly joined and they are wrong in their present position when they claim that they will help to write the program. We know that they will pursue their same selfish designs for their personal benefits. The hospital costs are 10 times what it was 20 years ago. The hospitals pay no taxes and are given huge federal grants. Most of the rooms and equipment are donated. The wages paid to the help are menial. Who gets the money? It is true that the banks receive a small part for the high interest rates on large sums, advanced for construction, but what happens to the enormous sums collected? Governor Rockefeller promised a full investigation in his campaign of 1962, but now we have less than a year to hear from that source. The programs of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield, Social Security, etc., all tend to guarantee and underwite the medical program out of all proportion to the relative true value of benefits. It is time the people had real information so we can evaluate the program notwithstanding the heart-throbbing episodes of Dr. Kildare. But let's return to Fred Coddington.

Doc led the strenuous life. He was a professional paradox. His training had been in the school of the nowadays old fashioned general practitioner but his native endowment and the incredible amount and variety of his medical experience had carried him along in the front rank of his profession. While in his office, you found no white-coated medico with nurse in attendance. You would find, in old fashioned disarray, the finest and most modern instruments of the medical profession. His was a peculiarly incisive mind. He had an uncanny ability to toss aside the inconsequentials and get at the essential element in every professional problem.

Into a day of Doctor Coddington's life was crowded more drama than the average citizen lives through in a life time. In all kinds of weather, at all hours of day and night, he rode the country roads bringing to harassed souls relief, courage and happiness. Through the years, because of the exigencies of his work, he developed a singular resourcefulness and a calm confidence in his work which radiated the atmosphere of the sick room and brought restful sleep to anxious minds, smiles to children's faces, and courage to failing hearts.

Through the years as his practice grew, he came to know the souls of men and such was the ruggedness of his own great nature that he saw life as it really is. All men were equal in his sight, social position, business prominence, or any of the other more or less accidental favors of his life carried little prestige into his office. He ministered to the lowly with the same patient thoroughness with which he diagnosed the ailments of the proud. His few really intimate friends know the unlimited loyalty he loved to bestow upon those whom he admitted to his heart.

One warm summer evening a trick bicycle rider came to town. The scene of activity was on Main Street between Chestnut Street and the Savings Bank. He performed a few tricks and passed his hat. This was repeated several times. The crowd grew and the tricks became more difficult but each time he performed the act which he had promised. Finally he announced that he would stand on his head upon the seat without touching the handlebars. He passed the hat and Doc Coddington, my father and many others were present. The performer went up to Schmid Store (now Benson's) and got a good start, tipped his hat and rode as fast as he could down over the bridge towards Rosendale. Doc Coddington wanted to pursue him with a horse but soon decided we had received good value.

1846 Reynolds Cornell had been to Livonia & Adrian MM & had minutes H M charged w/using profane lang. & taking prop. not belonging to him - [Complaint made by one not a member of the Soc.] & practicing the grossest deception ~~against~~ upon me. [Mention of this made in several minutes thereafter, but it appears no big urgency to solve problem: I note this caution often — as tho carefully considered — giving time for change]

"We believe most friends have a care to attend all our meetings ... & to believe .. to have the care of exchanging meet house lands —

shows power of women

A yr later HM was disowned for using profane language (the Women's meeting concurring. Reynolds Cornell et al appt to have a suitable interview with him; inform him of the judgment .. furnish him w/a copy of this complaint against him (if required); acquaint him w/his privilege of appealing & report.

1847 — For 4 mos the subj. of holding a meeting at or near Reynolds Cornell's considered — then dismissed from the minutes for the present.

1848 John Mott married Quedulma Knowles [~~apparent~~ at this widow On Wm (A)?]. Pennfield town of Calhoun Co.

A few mos. later — one of the parties had deceased.

— attend our own meetings "for worship & discipline".

Note: [Con't scanning data thru 1871.

no mention of Coddingtons in death, nor of Sherwood Branch Co MM — prob never was one. Reynolds Cornell seems to have "disappeared from record".

By 1850 David Codd is dead & Dorcas lives w/Joseph jr so Codd. prob dropped out of Quak. in early 1840s.

as other MM business mentioned in BatCrMM, i.e Adrian
